Fiction & Non-fiction

WEIDENFELD & NICOLSON is one of the most prestigious and dynamic literary imprints in British and international publishing, home to a wide range of literary fiction and non-fiction, modern classics, prizewinning debuts and worldwide bestsellers.

Our passion for extraordinary writing dates back to our visionary founders, George Weidenfeld and Nigel Nicolson, who were responsible for introducing some of the twentieth-century's most remarkable voices – Vladimir Nabokov, Isaiah Berlin, Eric Hobsbawm and Nicolson's own parents Sir Harold Nicolson and Vita Sackville-West – to a wide readership. They launched their publishing house in 1949 with the idea of building bridges and opening minds through exceptional works of literature: we have been carrying on their legacy ever since.

Our authors include Antony Beevor, Sarah Brooks, Oliver Bullough, Ed Caesar, Clare Chambers, Naoise Dolan, Ian Dunt, Gillian Flynn, Antonia Fraser, Georgi Gospodinov, Madeleine Gray, Bettany Hughes, Claire Lombardo, James McBride, Simon Sebag Montefiore, Téa Obreht, Michael Palin, Carlos Ruiz Zafón, Adam Rutherford, Philippe Sands, Bernhard Schlink, Alice Walker and Malala Yousafzai.

On the Eve of Goodbye

Kyung-Sook Shin

Seoul, Korea
www.kyungsookshin.com

From one of Korea's most celebrated authors comes an unforgettable novel about creativity, belonging and human connection

In New Jersey during a hurricane, an older Korean woman sits at home and writes a letter recounting her life.

In a hotel room in Germany, a young Korean woman writes a friend a letter about their deep friendship.

In coastal Jeju, an artist sits in a friend's studio, answering the letter she has been avoiding for years.

Weaving together the lives of these three artists, On the Eve of Goodbye is a moving, wise and tender novel from one of Korea's most loved authors.

TRANSLATED FROM KOREAN BY ANTON HUR

KYUNG-SOOK SHIN is an internationally bestselling Korean novelist. In 2011 she won the Man Asian Literary Prize for her 2-million-copy bestseller Please Look After Mother. She lives in Seoul.

Esther, the Butcher

Mariia Niskavaara

Espoo, Finland
 @miskavaara

Already an international sensation, this playful, profound, completely original debut is a twisted fairy tale about meat, reproduction and womanhood

Here comes Esther. Tall Esther. Big Esther. Esther, the butcher. She has strong thighs and a short skirt. She lives in a small town built around a meat factory. She works at the slaughterhouse and has an uncanny ability to understand the language of meat. But work alone isn't enough – and now she wants to have a baby.

A deadpan comedy teetering on the edge of the absurd and the grotesque, Esther, the Butcher introduces us to the extraordinary talent and imagination of Mariia Niskavaara.

TRANSLATED FROM FINNISH BY KATE SOTEJEFF-WILSON

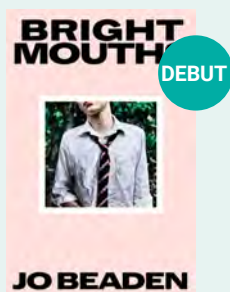

MARIIA NISKAVAARA is an author from Valkeakoski, Finland. She is currently writing a doctoral dissertation on the aesthetics of meat, the body and decay. Esther, the Butcher is her first novel.

Bright Mouths

Jo Beaden

Oxford, UK

A key W&N debut launch. A blistering, queer coming-of-age drama about a high school debating team

Seventeen-year-old Seb joins the school debate team and falls in with a clique of dazzlingly articulate but emotionally volatile sixth formers.

Debating offers Seb a brighter future and he becomes infatuated with Soren, his beautiful and aloof debate partner. As pressures build, friendships fragment and the group spirals towards a life-altering catastrophe.

Tender and devastating, Bright Mouths is a propulsive drama about beauty, fear and the dangerous allure of brilliance.

JO BEADEN is a non-binary writer. Their short fiction has been published in Typishly and Garland magazines. Bright Mouths draws on their experiences of PTSD and high-level competitive debating.

The Last Secret: Victor Rothschild and the Cambridge Spies Roland Thomas

London, UK
www.roleythomas.com
X @roleylgt

The extraordinary untold story of Victor Rothschild, the banking heir who turned spy-catcher when his friends became double agents

Rothschild was a rising star of British intelligence. Between Blitz parties and midnight briefings, he hunted Nazi agents, disarmed bombs and helped shape Britain's secret war.

But Rothschild's greatest threat wasn't German – it was personal. His closest friends from Cambridge, Anthony Blunt and Guy Burgess, had shared his flat, his table and his trust. He helped them into positions of national importance. Both were Soviet spies.

Drawing on newly released MI5 files, Thomas reveals Rothschild's decades-long quest to bring his former friends to justice.

ROLAND THOMAS is a British writer and historian. He grew up in London and West Cork, Ireland and lives in south-west London.

Small Talk

Rory Squire

Stockholm, Sweden
 @rory_squire

A smart, funny debut novel about a disastrous birthday dinner and one couple deciding whether or not to have children

Tonight, Magnus and Meredith are going to a birthday party.

It will be an evening like many others: people will talk too much, drink too much, and confide things they shouldn't – about rising prices, their obsessive marathon training, their dark pasts, marital regrets and secret aspirations.

But beneath all these conversations is the one that Magnus and Meredith are not having: should this be the night they start trying for a baby? And in a relationship this happy, what is going to happen next?

RORY SQUIRE studied English Literature at the University of Edinburgh. Since graduating, she has quietly defied professional distinction, forgoing the pleasures of success in her slog to become a writer.

The Fifth Crime:

On Ecocide, Justice and Hope

Philippe Sands

London, UK
 @phillipesands.bsky.social

The story of the making of a law and the making of a lawyer, from the author of East West Street

The Fifth Crime tells the story of the campaign to recognise ecocide – the destruction of the natural world – as an international crime, alongside genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and aggression. It is also a personal journey, as Sands traces his making as a lawyer, shaped by encounters with scientists, activists and judges.

Moving between private memory and global crisis, he explores how the law might evolve to place the protection of the planet at the heart of justice – and how idealism can help bring about change.

PHILIPPE SANDS is the Baillie Gifford Prize-winning author of multiple bestsellers (including East West Street) and a barrister involved in many of the most significant international cases in recent years.

Fragile Bodies: On Illness, Pain and the Art of Making

Kat Lister

London, UK
@katlister

A beguiling examination of the astonishing creative endeavours born from bodily suffering in the life and work of seven artists

A meditation on vulnerability, resilience and the human drive to create meaning, Fragile Bodies explores the lives of seven artists who confronted physical adversity and transformed suffering into creativity.

From Matisse's cut-outs, created when he could no longer hold a paintbrush or stand at his easel, to the fragmentary hope of Derek Jarman's garden in the years he spent living with HIV, Lister explores how bodies in crisis can yield unexpected beauty – and how art can offer resistance when words or medicine fall short.

A chilling fireside tale of vengeance and forgiveness – from the bestselling, beloved Reverend Richard Coles

In a post-war Britain grieving the horrors of WW2, a young curate is called to an unassuming terrace house. There's something inside: something supernatural that terrifies the residents to the point of silence. Panic-stricken, he flees.

Forty years later, he tends a bleak parish on a windswept Scottish island – isolated and undisturbed. Until a stranger shows up, bringing the past snapping at his heels . . .

From the Reverend Richard Coles comes a nostalgic, emotionally sweeping tale of sin, guilt and forgiveness.

REVEREND RICHARD COLES is a writer, broadcaster and an Anglican priest. Alongside other works, he is the author of the bestselling Canon Clement series.

Internationally bestselling Marxist philosopher Kohei Saito sets out a vision of hope for a 'ruined planet'

Amidst political collapse on one hand and climate breakdown on the other: accelerationism is the only philosophy not clinging to the now-extinct idea of progress. Though typically home to the nihilist right, a hybrid of accelerationism and anti-capitalism might just be our only hope for a politics of emancipation on a ruined planet. The result: Dark Socialism.

From 'rock star philosopher' Kohei Saito comes an anti-capitalist clarion call for our breakneck times – channelling despair into a socialist project equal to the end of progress.

KOHEI SAITO is an associate professor at the University of Tokyo. His bestselling book, Slow Down, is credited with a rebirth of climate economics in Japan.

Village is all Mona has ever known.

Nineteen years old, she lives with her Da in a decaying caravan on a salt-bitten stretch of coast, working shifts at the chippie and keeping her hands purposed by helping her community.

But she has never quite fit in. So when Ingrid arrives, Mona is undeniably drawn to her enigmatic new neighbour and the wriggling eel she keeps on her desk.

As they become entangled in a wild and all-consuming intimacy, old stories begin to wash ashore – and soon Mona must choose between the safety of belonging and the risk of becoming herself.

An immersive historical literary fantasy set in 1790s maritime Britain, from Sunday Times bestselling author Sarah Brooks

September 1790, Greenwich. Sea Library clerk William Godsolve is sent to his coastal hometown after a dangerous stolen book threatens a nation already gripped by trade wars, smuggling and a mysterious seasickness.

There he joins Agnes, a schoolteacher protecting afflicted children, uncovering a conspiracy linking the illness, the sea and his own past.

A richly imagined historical fantasy of mystery, magic and maritime power.

SARAH BROOKS won the 2019 Lucy Cavendish Prize. Her PhD is on monsters in classical Chinese ghost stories and she is co-editor of Samovar, a magazine for translated speculative fiction.

A Legacy Sybille Bedford

Deceased

SYBILLE BEDFORD (1911–2006) was born in Charlottenburg, Germany. A novelist, biographer, essayist and journalist, her book Jigsaw was shortlisted for the Booker Prize in 1989. She was elected a Companion of Literature in 1994.

Sybille Bedford's first novel, launched in 1956 and now hailed as a modern classic, offers a portrait of two intertwined German families

A Legacy is the tale of two very different families: the Merzes and the Feldens.

The Jewish Merzes are longstanding members of Berlin's haute bourgeoisie, and the Feldens are landed aristocracy from Germany's Catholic south.

After Julius von Felden marries Melanie Merz the fortunes of the two families will be strangely, indeed fatally, entwined.

Set during the run-up to the First World War, A Legacy is captivating, magnificently funny and profound: an unforgettable image of a doomed way of life.

MARY MCCARTHY (1912–89) was a critic for the New Republic, the Nation and the Partisan Review. Her books include The Group, Memories of a Catholic Girlhood and The Oasis.

Mary McCarthy's beloved modern classic novel about a group of urban American intellectuals who try unsuccessfully to establish a utopia

A band of intellectuals and artists abandon New York City for a dilapidated rural compound they grandly christen 'the Oasis'. Their aim is nothing less than to build a utopia.

But as the community struggles with muddy fields, leaking roofs and endless meetings, old hierarchies begin to reassert themselves.

McCarthy's cool, ironic narrator – both participant and sceptic – records how lofty principles collapse under the weight of ego, sexual politics and the stubborn persistence of class and power.

Whores of Babylon Frankie Miren

A new history of sex work, reclaimed from the clients, which reclaims the symbol of the whore

Across time, around the world, people have exchanged sex for resources and money. There are many words to describe this act: sex worker, prostitute, hooker, but it is the whore that endures through time.

The Whore appears in so many epochs and locations. She has existed for as long as we have had written records of humanity. However, our archives are unreliable. It is a record written by the clients, and by the whore-haters, not sex workers themselves. This book sets the record straight.

FRANKIE MIREN is a writer, journalist and sex-worker activist engaged in the fight for decriminalisation. She is the author of a novel and has written for most major publications.

Sound and the City: Listening to the History of New York Philip Clark

A bold new history of New York City told through the sounds, music and noise that shaped its unmistakable identity

From Gustav Mahler to Debbie Harry, from Miles Davis to Lou Reed and hip-hop, this is a book that saturates readers in the music of New York City and argues that sound has been as crucial to its identity as the visual splendour of its skyline.

It pieces together the story of the city's musicians alongside New York's sonic DNA, plundering urban history, folklore, geography and geology, the history of immigration, the 1929 Wall Street Crash and political intrigues that stretch across the decades.

The definitive biography of Aphex Twin, the most celebrated and mysterious electronic music artist of the twenty-first century

Presented as a kaleidoscopic work of biography, this is the long-overdue story of Richard D. James, better known as Aphex Twin. But it is also something much stranger: an alternative history of Cornwall, a spicy riposte to polite nature writing, a Wunderkammer of occult lore, and a walker's guide to the remote and eerie West Country.

Along the way, it becomes a history of electronic dance music, a heartfelt portrait of musical obsession, and an irreverent exploration of pre-Christian and early Christian belief. Like its elusive subject, the book refuses to stay in one shape.

Stout of this World: One man's search for the globe's greatest Irish pubs Colm Dalton

Part travelogue, part love letter, this is a hilariously intrepid journey in search of humanity's favourite watering holes

Everybody loves an Irish pub. Whether you're settling in for a quiet pint by a roaring fire, embracing the craic with a raucous singalong or stumbling out of a questionable imitation on holiday, we all gravitate towards these beacons of green, white and orange. But why do they mean so much to us? Colm Dalton has made it his life's mission to travel the globe in search of the world's best Irish pubs, in the hope of answering this age-old question.

Kerry-born COLM DALTON is an associate lecturer at University College London, and for the last decade has written about his travels to visit every Irish pub in the world.

From the Industrial Revolution to Nazi Germany and the Cold War, these are the twenty football stadiums that tell a global history of the twentieth century

Football stadiums stand as near-constant North Stars in an ever-changing world. These structures are the physical, geographical and cultural embodiments of the world's most popular sport, and the stories behind them can show the history of the people and places surrounding them.

Joey D'Urso travels from Manchester and Manila to Buenos Aires and Berlin to trace events like the Industrial Revolution via Wrexham's Racecourse Ground, the rise of the Soviet Union in Kyiv's Olympic Stadium and Argentina's Dirty War through the River Plate's Estadio Monumental.

JOEY D'URSO is an author and journalist who has worked for The Times, The Athletic and BBC News. His first book More Than A Shirt received widespread acclaim and was shortlisted for two awards.

The brilliant new psychological thriller from exciting new voice, Kingsley Pearson

When therapist Aaron Pereira arrives on the Isle of Wight seeking a fresh start, the last thing he expects is to find himself caught in a tragedy. The police suspect that his predecessor, Dr Geoffrey Miller, is guilty of murdering a former patient. The problem? He's nowhere to be found.

As long-buried secrets come to light, Aaron finds himself questioning everything the authorities claim and is drawn to investigate. After all, what would drive a respected and kindly therapist to harm a patient they're sworn to protect? And even worse – if a therapist like him could be a killer, what might Aaron himself be capable of?

One morning, a phone call from a real estate agent changes the life of Lumiere, a broke architect in Paris. He is invited to view a historic mansion on the Ile de la Cité, a location far beyond his wildest dreams. If approved, he'll be able to call it home.

The only catch? He must visit the ailing owner at a sanatorium in Switzerland and help him uncover the family secrets embedded in the mansion's walls . . .

Author and architectural designer BAEK HEESUNG's motif is 'architecture containing memories'. He creates spaces that are completed with people's memories and love. His published works include the essay 'Fantastic Thoughts'.

The brand new book in the no.1 bestselling Rivers of London series! Strap in for a fantastic mystery

The London Silver Vaults – the largest collection of silver for sale in the world, with more locks than the Bank of England and more cameras than a celebrity punch-up.

Not somewhere you can murder someone without a trace – only that's what happened.

The disappearing act, the reports of a blinding flash of light, and memory loss amongst the witnesses make this a case for Detective Constable Peter Grant and the Special Assessment Unit. But Peter's about to encounter something – and somebody – that nobody expects . . .

Every book in BEN AARONOVICH's Rivers of London series has been a Sunday Times bestseller. He's published in fourteen languages and has sold more than 2 million copies worldwide.

The highly anticipated new historical epic from Sunday Times bestseller Ben Kane

207 BC. Defeated by the young Scipio in Spain, Hasdrubal Barca leads his army over the Alps in a desperate bid to link up with his brother Hannibal. Travelling in the midst of his host are Hanno, Aurelia and their son Malchus. As the chance of confrontation with the legions grows more certain, danger presses on the little family from every side.

More than a decade since the conflict began, the two sides prepare for a final bout. Rome has superior numbers and intelligent, committed generals. Carthage, despite being outnumbered, has not just Hasdrubal Barca and his elephants, but Hannibal, the most brilliant military mind of the age. It will be a battle for the ages.

Eleven of BEN KANE's twenty-one novels have been Sunday Times bestsellers. His books are published in twelve languages, selling over a million copies worldwide. He lives in Somerset.

A provocative journey into personality disorders and the potential benefits of harnessing their power

Psychopathy. Narcissism. Machiavellianism.

These are the traits of the personality 'Dark Triad' and relegated to the outer edges of humanity: liars, dictators, criminals.

But what if we saw them as operating on a spectrum on which we all exist?

In this provocative book, Kevin Dutton will take readers on a shocking journey of discovery to explore how these traits evolved, how they impact interpersonal relationships and workplace dynamics, and how they may – in fact – be key to our success.

 @catharinamaura

Catharina Maura delivers an original sequel to her enthralling romantasy, A Curse of Shadows and Ice

A witch princess. A werewolf prince.

Could a second chance at love unite their kingdoms . . . ?

Princess Elaine never expected to fall for her worst enemy, Prince Raphael. Witches and werewolves are natural-born rivals, after all. But when their kingdoms are absorbed into the Eldirian Empire and they're forced to serve side-by-side as advisors at court, everything begins to change . . .

CATHARINA MAURA is a USA Today bestselling author. She writes angsty, fast-paced, contemporary romance novels that break your heart before they lead you to a hard-won happily ever after.

The Dark Isle

Holly D. Ahearne

The first book in a dark and epic dystopian fantasy series from an incredible debut talent

Annette is a healer who, in a deal to save her sick brother, embarks on an undercover mission to the Dark Isle.

Meanwhile on the Dark Isle, Ruthon must compete to become the next matriarch. When an enticing outsider stumbles into her arms, Ruthon has the perfect opportunity to prove her worth.

But nothing on the island is what it seems, and as Annette is swept deeper into its secrets – and into a love she never expected – both women could lose everything.

HOLLY D. AHEARNE lives nomadically around Europe with her baby son, greyhound and incredulous husband – who married her despite the morbid mistreatment of men in her manuscripts.

The Tribulation of Gods

Rogba Payne

London, UK

The epic conclusion to the Song of Godhunters trilogy, filled with West African myth, ancient magic and warring gods

Young musician Rumi and his fellow wielders of shadow magic have driven out the Palmaine colonisers and restored their queen to the throne. Though their invaders have fled, their empire is far from defeated. Internal factions threaten the fragile new nation, bloodthirsty godhunters stalk the land, while the old gods remain silent.

Rumi and his new-found family must venture into the heart of their enemy's power to seek a weapon that could decide the coming war – even as the Palmaine's One God begins to stir.

ROGBA PAYNE is the author of The Dance of Shadows and A Testimony of Blood, the former of which won the inaugural Aldiss Award for Worldbuilding in 2025.

Anarchy of Dreams

Mahmud El Sayed

London, UK

A hugely ambitious science fiction novel of ideas – of politics, culture, and how the networks which bind us also keep us apart

The Safina is a generation-ship which carries not only the future of humanity, but its past.

When the ancestors cradled in cryo-sleep below decks for centuries are awoken, it triggers a power struggle which engulfs the entire ship.

As protests become riots, it seems there is another presence onboard, which nobody dares understand.

Sometimes the answers to the big questions lie within . . .

MAHMUD EL SAYED is a British-Egyptian SFF writer and translator. He lives in East London where he spends his time pondering linguistic oddities and running story ideas by his cat. In 2023, he won the Future Worlds Prize with his novel The Republic of Memory.

From BookTok sensation Caty Rogan comes the heart-stopping epic sequel to Kissed by the Gods!

Blessed. Gifted. Deadly.

Leina wasn't supposed to wield a magical weapon or bond with a winged warhorse. She wasn't supposed to train in a dangerous military fortress, or find love with Ryot, a gods-blessed warrior.

With ancient terrors looming, the kingdom looks to Leina to hold back the dark. They want a girl to bleed for them. But Leina is done bleeding.

Because their world was built on the bones of the damned.

And the only way to save it is to unmake it completely.

CATY ROGAN wrote her first story at age five – with crayons, dramatic flair and a firm belief the Power Rangers were the villains.
