The stunning third novel in the award-nominated, critically acclaimed Darktown series sees a newspaper editor murdered against the backdrop of Rosa Parks's protest and Martin Luther King Jnr's emergence

Midnight Atlanta

THOMAS MULLEN

Atlanta, 1956.

When Arthur Bishop, editor of Atlanta's leading black newspaper, is killed in his office, copturned-journalist Tommy Smith finds himself in the crosshairs of the racist cops he's been trying to avoid. To clear his name, he needs to learn more about the dangerous story Bishop had been working on.

Meanwhile, Smith's ex-partner Lucius Boggs and white sergeant Joe McInnis – the only white cop in the black precinct – find themselves caught between meddling federal agents, racist detectives and Communist activists as they try to solve the murder.

With a young Rev Martin Luther King Jnr making headlines of his own, and tensions in the city growing, Boggs and Smith find themselves back on the same side in a hunt for the truth that will put them both at risk.

Soon to be a major TV series from Jamie Foxx and Sony Pictures Television.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Thomas Mullen is the author of Darktown, an NPR Best Book of which the Year. has been shortlisted for the Los Angeles Times Book Prize, the Southern Book Prize, the Indies Choice Book Award, has been nominated for two CWA Dagger Awards, and is being developed for television by Sony Pictures with executive producer Jamie Foxx. The twentieth novel by Sunday Times number one bestseller Mark Billingham is a thrilling treat for fans and new readers alike – a prequel to his landmark, massively influential debut novel, Sleepyhead

Cry Baby

MARK BILLINGHAM

It's 1996. Detective Sergeant Tom Thorne is a haunted man. Haunted by the moment he ignored his instinct about a suspect, by the horrific crime that followed and by the memories that come day and night, in sunshine and shadow.

So when seven-year-old Kieron Coyne goes missing while playing in the woods with his best friend, Thorne vows he will not make the same mistake again. Cannot.

The solitary witness. The strange neighbour. The friendly teacher. All are in Thorne's sights.

This case will be the making of him . . . or the breaking.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mark Billingham has twice won the Theakston's Old Peculier Award for Crime Novel of the Year, and has also won a Sherlock Award for the Best Detective created by a British writer. Each of the novels featuring Detective Inspector Tom Thorne has been a Sunday Times bestseller. Sleepyhead and Scaredy Cat were made into a hit TV series on Sky 1 David Morrissey starring Thorne, and a series based on the novels In the Dark and Time of Death was broadcast on BBC1. Mark lives in North London with his wife and two children.

Prisoners of Geography meets The World is Flat in a ground-breaking new study

Soft Power

ROBERT WINDER

The UK's position as a "soft power superpower" is under threat with the country moving to second place in the rankings, after another year of turbulent domestic politics. So how can the UK ensure it continues to be first amongst equals? As national movements resurface across the world, unsettling the international balance, the old-fashioned 'sphere of influence' is making a comeback. Nation states are once again competing to win friends and influence people by selling themselves as alluring brands.

Soft power used to be thought of as merely the surface gloss on hard power – the velvet glove on the iron fist. But in the modern world of high-speed data flow and energetic migration, it now packs a decisive punch in its own right. As the UK prepares for life outside the EU, its soft power matters more than ever. Should we now prioritise soft power and regard this as a key means to strengthen the UK's global role? Moving from West to East, from America to Japan, the book will estimate the weight of soft power by exploring the varied ways in which it operates.

In Bloody Foreigners and The Last Wolf, Robert Winder explored the way Britain was shaped first by migration, and then by hidden geographical factors. Now, in Soft Power he explores the way modern states are asserting themselves not through traditional realpolitik but through alternative means.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Robert Winder was literary editor of the Independent for five years. His works of non-fiction include Last Wolf: TheHiddenSprings of Englishness, Bloody Foreigners: TheStory Immigration to Britain and The Little Wonder: The Remarkable Story of Wisden and his novels include The Final Act of Mr Shakespeare. He lives in London.

The definitive one-volume biography of a literary legend

Russian Roulette

RICHARD GREENE

Probably the greatest British novelist of his generation, Graham Greene's own story was as strange and compelling as those he told of Pinkie the Mobster, Harry Lime or the Whisky Priest. A restless traveller, he was a witness to many of the key events of modern history – including the origins of the Vietnam War, the Mau Mau Rebellion, the betrayal of the double-agent Kim Philby, the rise of Fidel Castro, and the guerrilla wars of Central America.

Traumatised as a boy and thought a Judas among his schoolmates, Greene tried Russian Roulette and attempted suicide. He suffered from bipolar illness, which caused havoc in his private life.

Often called a Catholic novelist, his works came to explore the no-man's-land between belief and unbelief. A journalist, an MI6 officer and an unfailing advocate for human rights, he sought out the inner narratives of war and politics in dozens of troubled places, and yet he distrusted nations and armies, believing that true loyalty was a matter between individuals.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Richard Greene is Professor of English at The University of Toronto and a renowned biographer.

Sasha Swire's diaries open a fabulously insightful and revealing window on political life

– one never documented before

Diary of an MP's Wife

SASHA SWIRE

What is it like to be a wife at the beating heart of politics during two tumultuous political decades? Sasha Swire has been in a perfect position to observe – since for over twenty years she has been married to Hugo Swire, MP for East Devon. But hers is no subservient role: she wrote the selection speech which got her husband his job. She has been friends with David and Samantha Cameron, George and Frances Osborne, Amber Rudd, Baroness Kate Fall and many others - throughout the years of the Tory coalition and then the battle for power after the resignation of Theresa May. And she has been a passionate advocate of Brexit, having once been a Remainer. These may be the most unfettered, revealing and outrageous diaries since Alan Clark's.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sasha Swire has held posts as a journalist in Asia and Fleet Street and was a Senior Parliamentary Researcher for nearly two decades. She is the daughter of a former Cabinet Minister and wife of a former Minister of State. Sasha divides her time between London and Devon.

A powerful, moving and darkly comic memoir from the brilliant comedian, actor and broadcaster Alan Davies, star of QI and Jonathan Creek

Just Ignore Him

ALAN DAVIES

In this compelling memoir, comedian and actor Alan Davies recalls his boyhood with vivid insight and devastating humour. Shifting between his 1970s upbringing and his life today, Davies moves poignantly from innocence to experience to the clarity of hindsight, always with a keen sense of the absurd.

From sibling dynamics, his voiceless, to misunderstood progression through school, sexuality and humiliating 'accidents', Davies inhabits his younger mind with spectacular accuracy, sharply evoking an era when Green Shield Stamps, Bob-a-Job week and Whizzer & Chips loomed large, a bus fare was 2p - and children had little power in the face of adult motivation. Here, there are often exquisitely tender recollections of the mother he lost at six years old, of a bereaved family struggling to find its way, and the kicks and confusion of adolescence.

Through even the joyous and innocent memories, the pain of Davies's lifelong grief and profound betrayal is unfiltered, searing and beautifully articulated. Just Ignore Him is not only an autobiography, it is a testament to a survivor's resilience and courage.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Alan Davies is a comedian, writer and actor, best known for starring in the hit BBC series Jonathan Creek and his regular appearances as a panellist on QI.

The new novel from bestselling historical novelist Suzannah Dunn

The Testimony of Alys Twist

SUZANNAH DUNN

1553: deeply-divided England rejoices as the rightful heir, Mary Tudor, sweeps to power on a tide of populist goodwill. But the people should have been careful what they wished for: Mary's mission is to turn back time to an England of old. Within weeks there is widespread rebellion in favour of her heir, her half-sister, princess Elizabeth, who is everything that Mary isn't. From now on, Elizabeth will have to use her considerable guile just to stay alive.

Orphan Alys Twist has come a long way – further than she ever dared hope – to work as a laundress at the royal Wardrobe. There she meets Bel, daughter of the Queen's tailor, and seems to have arrived at her own happy ending.

But in a world where appearance is everything, a laundress is in a unique position to see the truth of people's lives, and Alys is pressed into service as a spy in the errant princess's household. Alys herself, though, is hardly whiter than white, and when the princess is arrested she must make a dangerous choice.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Launched in 1990 with her debut novel, Darker Days Than Usual, Suzannah Dunn wrote a further critically five acclaimed contemporary novels, and a short story collection, published by Flamingo, before writing her first historical novel, The Queen of Subtleties, which was published in 2004. She has since written a further three bestselling historical novels, The Sixth Wife, The Queen's and The Sorrow Confession of Katherine Howard (a Richard & Judy pick in 2011).

The brand-new memoir from awardwinning writer and actor Rupert Everett

Tainted Glory

RUPERT EVERETT

In his highly anticipated third memoir, Rupert Everett tells the story of how he set out to make a film of Oscar Wilde's last days, and how that ten-year quest almost destroyed him. (And everyone else.)

Travelling across Europe for the film, he weaves in extraordinary tales from his past, remembering wild times, freak encounters and lost friends. There are celebrities, of course. But we also meet glamorous, but doomed Aunt Peta, who introduces Rupert (aged three) to the joys of make-up. In 80s Paris, his great friend Lychee burns bright, and is gone. While in 70s London, a 'weirdly tall, beyond size zero' teenage Rupert is expelled from the Central School of Speech and Drama.

Unflinchingly honest and hugely entertaining, Tainted Glory offers a unique insight into the 'snakes and ladders' of film-making. It is also a soulful and thought-provoking autobiography from one of our best-loved and most talented actors and writers.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Rupert Everett first rose to fame in Another Country. Since then he has appeared in countless films and plays, including Shakespeare Love, MyBest Friend's Wedding, An Ideal Husband and The Importance of Being Earnest. He played Oscar Wilde in The Judas Kiss to rave reviews. His first memoir, Red Carpets and Skins. Other Banana was Sunday Times bestseller. His second, Vanished Years, has also become a classic, and won the Sheridan Morley Prize for best biography in 2013.

Guy de la Bédoyère's gripping narrative history gives a sense of what it was like to be a soldier in the army that brought the Romans their empire

Gladius

GUY DE LA BÉDOYÈRE

The Roman army was the greatest fighting machine the ancient world produced. The Roman Empire depended on soldiers not just to win its wars, defend its frontiers and control the seas but also to act as the engine of the state. Roman legionaries and auxiliaries came from across the Roman world and beyond. They served as tax collectors, policemen, surveyors, civil engineers and, if they survived, in retirement as civic worthies, craftsmen and politicians. Some even rose to become emperors.

Gladius takes the reader right into the heart of what it meant to be a part of the Roman army through the words of Roman historians, and those of the men themselves through their religious dedications, tombstones and even private letters and graffiti. Guy de la Bédoyère throws open a window on how the men, their wives and their children lived, from bleak frontier garrisons to guarding the emperor in Rome, enjoying a ringside seat to history, fighting the emperors' wars, mutinying over pay, marching in triumphs, throwing their weight around in city streets, and enjoying esteem in honourable retirement.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Guy de la Bédoyère has written a large number of books on the Roman world over the last thirty years, most recently Praetorian: The Rise and Fall of Rome's Imperial Bodyguard. He was part of Channel 4's archaeology series Time Team for fifteen years. He has degrees from Durham. London and University College, and is a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries. He has lectured in Britain and abroad. mainly Australia, and is an accredited lecturer of the Arts Society.

BERYL BAINBRIDGE

Reissued with a new introduction by Amanda Craig

Every Man For Himself

For the four fraught, mysterious days of her doomed maiden voyage in 1912, the Titanic sails towards New York, glittering with luxury, freighted with millionaires and hopefuls. In her labyrinthine passageways are played out the last, secret hours of a small group of passengers, their fate sealed in prose of startling, sublime beauty, as Beryl Bainbridge's haunting masterpiece moves inexorably to its known and terrible end.

According to Queeney

According to Queeney is a masterly evocation of the last years of Dr Johnson, arguably Britain's greatest Man of Letters. The time is the 1770s and 1780s and Johnson, having completed his life's major work (he compiled the first ever Dictionary of the English Language) is running an increasingly chaotic life. Torn between his strict morality and his undeclared passion for Mrs Thrale, the wife of an old friend, According to Queeney reveals one of Britain's most wonderful characters in all his wit and glory. Above all, though, this is a story of love and friendship and brilliantly narrated by Queeney, Mrs Thrale's daughter, looking back over her life.

To celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of The Elected Member winning the Booker Prize, Abacus is reissuing Bernice Rubens's classic novel with a bold new cover

The Elected Member

BERNICE RUBENS

Norman is the clever one of a close-knit Jewish family in the East End of London. Infant prodigy; brilliant barrister; the apple of his parents' eyes . . . until at forty-one he becomes a drug addict, confined to his bedroom, at the mercy of his hallucinations and paranoia.

For Norman, his committal to a mental hospital represents the ultimate act of betrayal. For Rabbi Zweck, Norman's father, his son's deterioration is a bitter reminder of his own guilt and failure. Only Bella, the unmarried sister, still in her childhood white ankle socks, can reach across the abyss of pain to bring father and son the elusive peace which they both desperately crave.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Bernice Rubens was born in Wales and worked as both a writer and a film-maker. She is the winner of the Booker Prize for The Elected Member, and was shortlisted for the same prize for a subsequent novel: A Five Year Sentence. She died in 2004.

A funny, frank and genuinely helpful book about female friendship by the two women behind the hugely successful podcast Call Your Girlfriend – and the term 'shine theory'

Big Friendship

AMINATOU SOW and ANN FRIEDMAN

Big Friendship is a mixture of memoir – a thoughtful recollection of Aminatou and Ann's connection and attachment – and reflections on the pleasures and difficulties of friendship. How do you build something that can be as important as a romantic relationship, without the official acknowledgement of the larger culture? How do you employ those strategies to deepen a sense of satisfaction and connection? Ann and Amina have worked to create meaningful networks (AKA ladywebs) and a culture of deep affection and support rather than envy (AKA shine theory). They bring the reader into therapy sessions, group holidays, personal crises and job developments to show how all of this has worked in real life.

They elegantly top this off with a short form manifesto, making the case that female friendship is a potent political tool in a world that often suppresses information and discourages activism.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Aminatou Sow is a media personality and entrepreneur. Her work has won awards at the Cannes Lions and the Webbys. Forbes has named her one of the 30 under 30 in Tech. Aminatou also hosts the On She Goes and Color Full Lives podcasts. She writes for Shondaland and GQ and lives in Brooklyn.

Ann Friedman is a journalist and essayist. She is a contributor to New York magazine's The Cut, a columnist for the Los Angeles Times, and a contributing editor The Gentlewoman. Every Friday, \mathbf{she} sends email newsletter to 31,000 subscribers. who rely on her for links to the most interesting stuff on the internet. She lives in Los Angeles.

President Obama

Jack

MARILYNNE ROBINSON

Never has Marilynne Robinson's compassion, wisdom and wit been so beautifully employed as when she is telling us the story of this muchloved but wayward son. She is truly one of America's – and indeed the world's – greatest writers and thinkers.

Jack tells the story of John Ames Boughton, the beloved and grieved-over prodigal son of a Presbyterian minister in Gilead, Iowa, a drunkard and a ne'er-do-well. In segregated St. Louis sometime after World War II, Jack falls in love with Della Miles, an African-American high school teacher, also a preacher's child, with a discriminating mind, a generous spirit, and an independent will. Their fraught, beautiful story is one of Robinson's greatest achievements.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Marilynne Robinson is the recipient of a 2012 National Humanities Medal, awarded by President Barack Obama, for "her grace and intelligence in writing." In 2013 she was awarded South Korea's Pak Kyong-ni Prize for contribution to international literature and was shortlisted for the International Man Booker Prize. She is the author of Gilead, winner of the 2005 Pulitzer Prize for Fiction, and the 2004 National Book Critics Circle Award; Home, winner of the 2009 Women's Prize for Fiction and Lila, winner of the National Book Critics Circle Award. Her first novel, Housekeeping, won the Hemingway Foundation/PEN Award. Robinson's nonfiction books include What Are We Doing Here?, The Givenness of Things, When I Was a Child I Read Books, Absence of Mind, The Death of Adam, and Mother Country. She lives in Iowa City where she taught at the University of Iowa Writers' Workshop for twenty-five years.

Dark folktales retold for modern times by some of the most exciting women writing today, from Daisy Johnson to Eimear McBride

HAG

VARIOUS

Dark, potent and uncanny, Hag bursts with the untold stories of our isles, captured in voices as varied as they are vivid.

Here are sisters fighting for the love of the same woman, a pregnant archaeologist unearthing impossible bones and lost children following you home. A panther runs through the forests of England and pixies prey upon violent men.

From the islands of Scotland to the coast of Cornwall, the mountains of Galway to the depths of the Fens, these forgotten folktales howl, cackle and sing their way into the 21st century, wildly reimagined by some of the most exciting women writing in Britain and Ireland today.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Featuring stories by award winning writers; Daisy Johnson, Eimear McBride, Emma Glass, Kirsty Logan, Natasha Carthew, Mahsuda Snaith, Liv Little, Naomi Booth, Imogen Hermes Gowar and Irenosen Okojie.

A reissue of The Virago Book of Women Travellers, featuring writing by Gertrude Bell, Edith Wharton, Isabella Bird, Kate O'Brien, Mary Wollstonecraft, Lady Mary Wortley Montagu and many others

The Virago Book Of Women Travellers

EDITED BY MARY MORRIS with LARRY O'CONNOR

Three hundred years of wanderlust are captured in this collection as women travel for peril or pleasure, whether to gaze into Persian gardens or imbibe the French countryside, to challenge the fierce Sahara or climb an impossible mountain.

The extraordinary women in this collection are observers of the world in which they wander; their prose rich in description, remarkable in detail. Mary McCarthy conveys the vitality of Florence while Willa Cather's essay on Lavandou foreshadows her descriptions of the French countryside in later novels. Others are more active participants in the culture they are visiting, such as Leila Philip, as she harvests rice with Japanese women. Whether it is curiosity about the world, a thirst for adventure or escape from personal tragedy, all of these women are united in that they approached their journeys with wit, intelligence, compassion and empathy for the lives of those they encountered along the way.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mary Morris and Larry O'Connor have both travelled extensively throughout the world, both alone and together. They live together with their daughter, Kate.

A delicious detective story set in 1930s New York, and the winner of the inaugural Virago/The Pool New Crime Writer Award

One Night, New York

LARA THOMPSON

One winter night in 1932, at the top of the Empire State Building, Frances and Agnes, possible lovers and co-conspirators, are waiting for a man who has done something terrible to both of them. They plan to seek the ultimate revenge.

Set over the course of a single night, with flashbacks to the weeks leading up to the potential murder, One Night, New York is a detective story, a romance and a coming-of-age tale. It is also a story of old New York, of bohemian Greenwich Village between the wars, of floozies and artists and addicts, of a city that sucked in creatives and immigrants alike, lighting up the world, while all around America burned amidst the heat of the Great Depression.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lara Thompson teaches film at Middlesex University, and is the author of Film Light: Meaning and Emotion. Born in Cornwall, she now lives in London. One Night, New York is her first novel.

A beautiful new graphic novel from the author of Becoming Unbecoming

Eve

UNA

In the near future, in a world that seems just like our own, Eve grows up in a loving family that is increasingly threatened by a society which seems to be sleepwalking into totalitarianism. After a catastrophe that changes everything, Eve must set off on her own to try to survive and find a new way to live.

Eve is a book of mothers, daughters, human relationships, trust and community, human weakness, conflict, hopeful futures and painful pasts. It is speculative fiction that feels incredibly timely: Una explores the rise of authoritarianism on both the political right and left and imagines where it might all lead.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Una is a comics artist and writer. She has twenty years' experience in community arts education with adult learners and eight years' experience lecturing in fine art and illustration. She has a PhD in Fine Art Practice from Loughborough University, MFA (University of Leeds) and a First $\mathbf{B}\mathbf{A}$ Hons (Leeds Class University). Una's first graphic novel Becoming Unbecoming (Myriad Editions, 2015) has been widely translated - including editions inSpanish, Dutch, Portuguese, French, Italian and Turkish and a Canada/US edition - and was featured on BBC Radio 4 Open Book and Woman's Hour, Oprah.com and in Newsweek and Elle magazine.

A new cover reissue of And Still I Rise, first published in 1986, from Maya Angelou, one of the most celebrated writers and poets of the world

And Still I Rise

MAYA ANGELOU

Maya Angelou's poetry – lyrical and dramatic, exuberant and playful – speaks of love, longing, partings; of Saturday night partying, and the smells and sounds of Southern cities; of freedom and shattered dreams. 'The caged bird sings/ with a fearful trill / of things unknown / but longed for still / and his tune is heard / on the distant hill / for the caged bird / sings of freedom.' Of her poetry, Kirkus Reviews has written, 'It is just as much a part of her autobiography as I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings and the volumes that follow.'

'It is true poetry she is writing . . . it has an innate purity about it, unquenchable dignity' M. F. K. Fisher

'Maya Angelou writes from the heart and her language rings clear and true . . . Whether joyful, sad or playful, her poems speak with delicacy and depth of feeling' Publishers Weekly

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr Maya Angelou was one of the world's most important writers and activists. Born 4 April 1928, she lived and chronicled extraordinary life: rising from poverty, violence and racism, she became a renowned author, poet, playwright, civil rights' activist working with Malcolm X and Martin Luther King and She memoirist. wrote and performed a poem, 'On the Pulse of Morning', for President Clinton on his inauguration; she was given Presidential Medal Freedom by President Obama and was honoured by more than seventy universities throughout the world.

She had a lifetime appointment as Reynolds Professor of American Studies at Wake Forest University of North Carolina. Dr Angelou died on 28 May 2014.

Now at last comes the first complete book of her short stories, including those previously uncollected

The Collected Stories of Shirley Hazzard

SHIRLEY HAZZARD

Collected Stories includes both volumes of National Book Award-winning author Shirley Hazzard's short story collections – Cliffs of Fall and People in Glass Houses – alongside uncollected works and two previously unpublished stories.

Twenty-eight works of short fiction in all, The Collected Stories of Shirley Hazzard is a work of staggering breadth and talent. Taken together, Hazzard's short stories are masterworks in once telescoping focus, 'at surgical and symphonic' (NewYorker), ranging from quotidian struggles between beauty pragmatism to satirical sendups of international bureaucracy, from the Italian countryside to suburban Connecticut.

In an interview, Hazzard once said, 'The idea that somebody has expressed something, in a supreme way, that it can be expressed; this is, I think, an enormous feature of literature.' Her stories themselves are a supreme evocation of writing at its very best: probing, uncompromising and deeply felt.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born in Sydney in 1931, at the age of sixteen Shirley Hazzard began working for the British Combined Intelligence Services. At twenty she moved to New York and there she worked for the United Nations throughout much of the 1950s. She married Francis Steegmuller, translator and biographer in 1963 and they divided their time between Italy NewYork. They introduced by Muriel Spark.

Her last novel, The Great Fire won the 2003 National Book Award for fiction, the Miles Franklin Award, shortlisted for the Women's Prize for Fiction (then called The Orange) and named book of the year by The Economist.

She died on 12 December 2016 aged eighty five.

For readers of Meg Wolitzer, Lionel Shriver, Kate Atkinson and Jennifer Egan

Sea Wife

AMITY GAIGE

Juliet is failing to juggle motherhood and her anaemic dissertation when her husband, Michael, informs her that he wants to leave his job and buy a sailboat. The couple are novice sailors, but Michael persuades Juliet to say yes. With their two kids — Sybil, age seven, and George, age two, Juliet and Michael set off for Panama, where their forty-four-foot sailboat awaits them — a boat that Michael has christened the Juliet.

The initial result is transformative: their marriage is given a gust of energy, and even the children are affected by the beauty and wonderful vertigo of travel. The sea challenges them all – and most of all, Juliet, who suffers from postpartum depression.

Sea Wife is told in gripping dual perspectives: Juliet's first-person narration, after the journey, as she struggles to come to terms with the dire, life-changing events that unfolded at sea; and Michael's captain's log – that provides a riveting, slow-motion account of those same inexorable events.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Amity Gaige is the author of three novels, O My Darling, The Folded World and Schroder, which was shortlisted for the Folio Prize in 2014. Published in eighteen countries, Schroder was named one of the best books of 2013 by the New York Times Book Review, Huffington Post, Washington Post, and Publishers Weekly, among others. Gaige is the recipient of many awards for her previous novels, including Foreword Book of the Year Award for 2007; and in 2006, she was named one of the '5 Under 35' outstanding emerging writers by the National Book Foundation. A disconcerting novel of first loves and dangerous relationships perfect for fans of Nell Zink, Olivia Laing and Sally Rooney

The Boyfriend

LAURA SOUTHGATE

Erica is 17 and in her last year of high school. Donny is 42 and everywhere - in her yoga class, at German Club, in her parents' spare room . . .

The story of a young woman who finds herself subject to the gravitational field of a charismatic man, The Boyfriend is a cautionary tale about blindly accepting traditional 'love' narratives.

This clear-eyed, dismaying and often hilarious examination of sexual desire, trauma and growth is a remarkable debut and a perfect novel for our time.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Laura Southgate was born in Wellington in 1978. She holds an MA in English from the University of Auckland and in 2018 gained an MA in Creative Writing from the International Institute of Modern Letters at Victoria University of Wellington. She won the Adam Foundation Prize for The Boyfriend, which is her first book.

A collection of personal and critical essays on everything from childhood to womanhood, literature to visual arts and the relationship between form and meaning into storytelling

Kant's Little Prussian Head and Other Reasons Why I Write

CLAIRE MESSUD

Arranged in three parts, Kant's Little Prussian Head and Other Reasons Why I Write opens with Claire's most personal essays - reflections on a childhood divided between cultures, and between duelling models of womanhood. It is here, in these early years, that we see the seeds of Messud's inquiry into the precarious nature of girlhood, the role narrative plays in giving shape to a life, and the power of language. As the book progresses, we then see how these questions translate into Messud's rich body of criticism. In sections on literature and visual arts, Claire opens up the 'radical strangeness' of childhood in Kazuo Ishiguro's Never Let Me Go, the search for the self in Saul Friedlander; the fragility and danger of girlhood captured by Sally Mann; and the search for justice in Valeria Luiselli's The Lost Children Archive.

But it is the idea of the relationship between form and meaning to which this collection returns again and again. As she writes, in a time 'in which our ideals appear shattered and abandoned' it is in the return to language and to stories that 'we return to the essentials that make us human. It is to find the past and the present restored, and with them, the possibility of the future.'

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Claire Messud is a recipient of Guggenheim and Radcliffe Fellowships and the Strauss Living Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters. The author of five other works of fiction including, most recently, The Burning Girl, she lives in Cambridge, Massachusetts, with her family.

Using his trademark narrative skills, Tim Harford takes us deep into the world of statistics and shows how important and powerful they can be

How to Make the World Add Up

TIM HARFORD

Statistics are just a way of dressing up lies to give them authority – right? This is the view that we have come dangerously close to accepting as the norm, not least thanks to the landmark book How to Lie with Statistics, but also the efforts of many politicians and businesspeople since. But is it true? And if not, how dangerous is it to think it's true?

In this book, numbers, economics and ideas guru Tim Harford takes a deep dive into the world of statistics, showing us not just how stats are developed and perceived but also how their power and influence is changing. From art forgery to fake news and big data to dangerous political narratives, this extraordinary book relays the stories behind our understanding of what numbers mean, and shows why using them properly can give us unparalleled insight into every area of life.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Tim Harford is a senior columnist for the Financial Times and the presenter of Radio 4's More or Less. He was the winner of the Prize for economic Bastiat journalism in 2006, and More or Less commended was excellence in journalism by the Royal Statistical Society in 2010, 2011 and 2012. Harford lives in Oxford with his wife and three children, and is a visiting fellow at Oxford. A thrilling study of the key elements of great
- and fair - leadership, illuminated by real stories from history

The Art of Fairness

DAVID BODANIS

We often hear that 'nice guys finish last', but this is far from the truth. In reality, across a huge variety of situations, professions and time periods, the key elements of successful leadership are in fact a potent combination of listening to others, being generous with power, and mounting a proportionate defence.

From preventing the details of the London 2012 Olympic opening ceremony leaking from any of the thousands of volunteers, to constructing the Empire State Building, to the Allied victory in the Second World War - The Art of Fairness takes a selection of thrilling case studies from history and weaves a sparkling tapestry of lessons that demonstrate the surprising components of great leadership. As David Bodanis reveals with deft storytelling, while bad behaviour might seem like the quickest route to success, mastering the art of fairness is the most reliable, sustainable – and rewarding – path to integrity and influence.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

David Bodanis studied mathematics, physics and history at the University of Chicago, and many taught vears 'Intellectual Toolkit' course Oxford University. He is the author of many books including the New York Times bestseller E=MC2, which was adapted into the PBS documentary Einstein's Big Idea. He has been a popular speaker at TED conferences and at Davos, and most recently helped run an international study for the UK Treasury on the future of high-frequency trading. Bodanis's work has been published in the Financial Times. Guardian and New York Times.

In this gripping new crime novel from the New York Times-bestselling author, Quinn Colson is about to find out whether his quest for justice can coexist with his loyalty to the law . . .

The Revelators

ACE ATKINS

Shot up and left for dead, Sheriff Quinn Colson has revenge on his mind. With the help of his new wife Maggie, rehabilitation and sheer force of will, he's walking again, eager to resume his work as a southern lawman and track down responsible for his attempted murder. someone is standing in his way: an interim sheriff, appointed by the newly elected Vardaman, the man who Quinn knows ordered his murder. Vardaman sits at the top of the state's power structure - both legal and criminal - and little does he know Quinn is still alive. And coming for him.

Since Quinn's been gone, the criminal element in north Mississippi has flourished, with queen-pin Fannie Hathcock enjoying unbridled freedom. As an ice storm bears down on north Mississippi and Memphis, and Tibbehah County is isolated from the outside world, the killers will return to finish the job.

But this time, Quinn Colson and company will be waiting, ready to bust apart a criminal empire running on a rigged system for far too long. This is the battle of Jericho, the epic showdown that's been years in the making. In the end, the war will end – for better or worse.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ace Atkins is the author of twenty-three books, including eight Quinn Colson novels, the first two of which, The Ranger The Lost Ones, and nominated for the Edgar Award for Best Novel (he had a third Edgar nomination for his short story 'Last Fair DealDown'). He is the author of seven New York Times-bestselling novels in the continuation of Robert B. Parker's Spenser series. Before turning to fiction, he was a correspondentfor the Petersburg Times and a crime reporter for the Tampa Tribune, and he played defensive end for Auburn University football.

Kristen Arnett's debut novel is a darkly funny, heartwrenching and eccentric look at loss and love

Mostly Dead Things

KRISTEN ARNETT

One Florida morning, Jessa-Lynn Morton walks into her family's taxidermy shop to find that her father has committed suicide, right there on one of the metal tables. Shocked and grieving, Jessa steps up to manage the failing business while the rest of the Morton family falls apart.

Her mother decides to process her feelings by making aggressively lewd and increasingly disturbing art pieces with her dead husband's taxidermied animals. Her brother withdraws and struggles to cope. His wife – who is also the only person Jessa has ever been in love with – walks out without a word. Meanwhile, numb with lack of sleep and too much alcohol, Jessa starts to seek less-than-legal ways of generating income to keep the shop afloat.

The Mortons have reached tipping point. But for the first time, Jessa has no choice but to learn who these people she calls family truly are and, ultimately, how she fits alongside them.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Sometimes I Never Suffered: Poems

In Sometimes I Never Suffered, Shane McCrae remains 'a shrewd composer of American stories' (Dan Chiasson, New Yorker). Here, an angel, hastily thrown together by his fellow residents of Heaven, plummets to Earth in his first moments of consciousness. Jim Limber, the adopted mixed-race son of Jefferson Davis, wanders through the afterlife, reckoning with the nuances of America's, as well as his own, racial history.

Sometimes I Never Suffered is a search for purpose and atonement, freedom and forgiveness, imagining eternity not as an escape from the past or present, but as a reverberating record and as the culmination of time's manifold potential to mend.

The Gilded Auction Block: Poems

In The Gilded Auction Block, the acclaimed poet Shane McCrae considers the present moment in America on its own terms as well as for what it says about the American project and Americans themselves. In the book's four sections, McCrae alternately responds directly to Donald Trump and contextualizes him historically and personally, exploding the illusions of freedom of both black and white Americans.

A moving, incisive, and frightening exploration of both the legacy and the current state of white supremacy, The Gilded Auction Block is a book about the present that reaches into the past and stretches toward the future.

Chuck Palahniuk returns with the chilling tale, in classic Palahniuk tradition, of a father in search of his daughter, a young woman with a secret, and a malicious recording that can make 'the whole world scream at the exact same time'

The Invention of Sound

CHUCK PALAHNIUK

Private detective Foster Gates is a father in search of his missing daughter, and sound engineer Mitzi harbours a secret that may help him solve the case. It's Mitzi's job to create the dubbed screams used in horror films and action movies. She's the best at what she does.

But what no one in Hollywood knows is the screams Mitzi produces are harvested from the real, horror-filled, blood-chilling screams of people in their death throes — a technique first employed by Mitzi's father and one she continues on in his memory — a deeply conflicted serial killer compelled beyond her understanding to honour her father's chilling legacy.

Soon Foster finds himself on Mitzi's trail. And in pursuit of her dark art, Mitzi realises she's created the perfect scream, one that compels anyone who hears it to mirror the sound as long as they listen to it — a highly contagious seismic event with the potential to bring the country to its knees.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Chuck Palahniuk has been a nationally bestselling author since his first novel, 1996's Fight Club, was made into the acclaimed David Fincher film of the same name. Palahniuk's work has sold millions of copies worldwide. He lives outside Portland, Oregon.

An intimate disclosure of teenage life from the underbelly of rock n roll: Chiswick in the eighties, a dirty bohemia populated with feverish grubby characters involved in all manner of naughtiness

Chaise Longue

BAXTER DURY

When punk rock star Ian Dury disappeared to make films in the late 1980s, he left his twelve-year-old son in the care of his roadie in a damp rundown flat in Chiswick.

But this was no ordinary rock and roll tour roadie; this was the Sulphate Strangler. The Strangler having taken a lot of LSD in the 1960s depression, anger was prone hallucinations. He'd then gone on to gain notoriety in the 1970s by working with Led Zeppelin – he undoubtedly presented a complex boy personality of twelve Baxter's story is of these formative years and the extraordinary relationship that developed between the two, in a bohemia and time that we can all but imagine now.

Told in the uncompromising tone found in Dury's lyrics and filled with a brutal starkness that will draw comparisons to Viv Albertine's Clothes, Clothes, Clothes, Boys, Boys, Boys, this book will be one of the most talked about publications of 2020.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

The soya latte poet laureate of London's Ladbroke Grove, Baxter Dury has spent the last 15 years uniquely chronicling the inner workings of his (and everyone's) human condition over six critically acclaimed albums. His latest, The Night Chancers, was released in March 2020.

A hilarious and poignant love story about the way families are invented, told with the savvy of a Zadie Smith and with an inventiveness all Ian Williams's own, Reproduction explores unconventional connections and brilliantly redefines family

Reproduction

IAN WILLIAMS

Felicia and Edgar meet as their mothers are dying. Felicia, a teen from an island nation, and Edgar, the lazy heir of a wealthy German family, come together only because their mothers share a hospital room. When Felicia's mother dies and Edgar's 'Mutter' does not, Felicia drops out of high school and takes a job as Mutter's caregiver. They form a bond built on grief (and proximity) that results in the birth of a son Felicia calls Armistice.

Some years later, Felicia and Army (now fourteen) are living in the basement of a home owned by Oliver, a divorced man of Portuguese descent who has two kids - the teenaged Heather and the odd little Hendrix. Along with Felicia and Army, they form an unconventional family, except that Army wants to sleep with Heather, and Oliver wants to kill Army.

Reproduction is a profoundly insightful exploration of the bizarre ways people become bonded that insists that family isn't a matter of blood.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ian Williams is a prizewinning poet and author. Reproduction won the Giller Prize in 2019. He named as one Canadian writers to watch by Williams completed CBC. PhD. in English at the University of Toronto, and is currently an assistant professor of poetry in the Creative Writing program at University of British Columbia. 'An unforgettable debut'—Paul Beatty, Booker Prizewinning author of The Sellout

'Incisive and sharp' - Refinery29

Frying Plantain

ZALIKA REID-BENTA

Kara Davis is a girl caught in the middle – of her Canadian nationality and her desire to be a 'true' Jamaican; of her mother and grandmother's rages and life lessons; of having to avoid being thought of as too 'faas' or too 'quiet' or too 'bold' or too 'soft'.

Set in Little Jamaica, Toronto's Eglinton West neighbourhood, Kara moves from girlhood to the threshold of adulthood, from elementary school to high school graduation, in these twelve interconnected stories.

A rich and unforgettable portrait of growing up between worlds, Frying Plantain shows how, in one charged moment, friendship and love can enmity to and hate, well-meaning turn protection can become control, and teasing play can turn to something much darker. In her brilliantly incisive debut, Zalika Reid-Benta artfully depicts the tensions between mothers and daughters, second-generation Canadians and first-generation cultural expectations, and Black identity and predominately white society.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Zalika Reid-Benta is a Torontobased writer whose work has appeared on CBC Books, in TOK: Writing the New Toronto, and in Apogee Journal. In 2011, George Elliott Clarke recommended her as a 'Writer to Watch'. She received an MFA in fiction from Columbia University in 2014 and is an alumnus of the 2017 Banff Writing Studio. She completed a double English major inLiterature and Cinema and a minor in Caribbean Studies at University of Toronto's Victoria College. The eagerly awaited follow up to the acclaimed first Zaq & Jags novel, Brothers in Blood

Stone Cold Trouble

AMER ANWAR

'An engaging hero, a cunning plot and a fascinating journey into Southall's underworld. We'll be hearing a lot more from Amer Anwar'

– Mick Herron

Trying – and failing – to keep his head down and to stay out of trouble, ex-con Zaq Khan agrees to help his best friend, Jags, recover a family heirloom, currently in the possession of a wealthy businessman. But when Zaq's brother is viciously assaulted, Zaq is left wondering whether someone from his own past is out to get revenge.

Wanting answers and retribution, Zaq and Jags set out to track down those responsible. Meanwhile, their dealings with the businessman take a turn for the worse and Zaq and Jags find themselves suspected of murder.

It'll take both brains and brawn to get themselves out of trouble and, no matter what happens, the results will likely be deadly. The only question is, will it prove deadly for them, or for someone else . . .

An extraordinary literary debut from a Nigerian-born author about a boy's secret intersex identity and his desire to live as a girl

An Ordinary Wonder

BUKI PAPILLON

My name is Otolorin. I've been called monster. Within dark valleys of flesh I defy the given - a snake curled in upon itself, two-in-one, mythical and shunned. Yet, in that magic place between worlds, in the realm where the great mother gives milk to her offspring, I become like a goddess.

An Ordinary Wonder is the powerful coming-ofage story of an intersex twin, Oto, who is forced to live as a boy despite his heartfelt belief that he is a girl. His wealthy and powerful family are ashamed of him and treat him cruelly to secure his silence. His twin sister's love wavers in a world of secrets and lies that seems determined to tear them apart, and Oto must make drastic choices that will alter their lives for ever.

Richly imagined with African mythology, art and folk tales, this moving and modern book follows Oto through his life at home and at boarding school in Nigeria, and his ultimate dream of emigrating to a new life in the United States. An Ordinary Wonder takes us on a beautiful journey of what it means to feel whole.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

'The Mothers has stayed with me since I first read it, the words and the intimacy of the prose seeping into my pores' — Roxane Gay

The Mothers

BRIT BENNETT

The Mothers is a dazzling debut about young love, a big secret in a small community and the moments that haunt us most.

It's the last season of high school life for Nadia Turner, a rebellious, grief-stricken, seventeen-year-old beauty. Mourning her own mother's recent suicide, she takes up with the local pastor's son. Luke Sheppard is twenty-one, a former football star whose injury has reduced him to waiting tables at a diner. They are young; it's not serious. But the pregnancy that results from this teen romance — and the subsequent cover-up — will have an impact that goes far beyond their youth.

In entrancing, lyrical prose, The Mothers asks whether a 'what if' can be more powerful than an experience itself.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born and raised in Southern California. Brit Bennett graduated from Stanford University and later earned her MFA in fiction at the University of Michigan, where she won a Award in Graduate Hopwood Short Fiction as well as the 2014 Hurston/Wright Award for College Writers. Her work is featured in the New Yorker, the New York Times Magazine, the Paris Review and Jezebel. She is one of the National Book Foundation's 2016 Five Under Thirty Five honorees.

Set between the US and the Middle East, this is an electrifying coming-of-age story about love, identity and sexual desire against the backdrop of traditional values and religious views

You Exist Too Much

ZAINA ARAFAT

On a hot day in Bethlehem, a twelve-year-old Palestinian-American girl is yelled at by a group of men outside the Church of the Nativity. She has exposed her legs in a biblical city – an act they deem forbidden – and their judgement will echo on through her adolescence. When our narrator finally admits to her mother that she is queer, her mother's response only intensifies a sense of shame: 'You exist too much,' she tells her daughter.

Told in vignettes that flit between the US and the Middle East – from New York to Jordan, Lebanon and Palestine – You Exist Too Much is a coming-of-age novel which traces its protagonist from lost teenager to sought-after DJ and aspiring writer.

Opening up the fantasies and desires of one woman caught between cultural, religious and sexual identities, this captivating novel charts two of our most intense longings: for love, and a place to call home.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

The Victor novels have sold more than half a million copies, and Better Off Dead was a BBC Radio 2 Book Club pick. A Knock at the Door is his first psychological thriller.

Bestselling author Ali McNamara takes us to the glorious little Cornish town of St Felix – where romance and magic sparkle in the summer air

Kate and Clara's Curious Cornish Craft Shop

ALLMCNAMARA

Kate thinks all her wishes have come true when she opens her little craft shop down on the harbour in the pretty Cornish seaside town of St Felix.

It's been her life-long dream to open her own shop, and now she's finally got the chance, she's loving selling her own quirky handmade textile designs to the many holidaymakers that flock into St Felix every year. But there's a mystery about Kate's shop – one that Jack, the owner of a new art store in town, wants to help Kate solve. A series of mysterious paintings and beautiful embroidered pictures hint at a love story over sixty years old, but Kate needs to know how the story ends!

As Kate and Jack delve deeper into the vintage romance, they find that not only do their own lives share uncanny similarities with their 1950s counterparts, but also the two of them are becoming closer. But as the two couples' stories unfold over six decades apart, can Kate and Jack put right a wrong that's remained a secret since the 1950s, and will both couples end up with the happy ending they truly deserve?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ali McNamara attributes her over-active and very vivid imagination to one thing – being an only child. Time spent dreaming up adventures when she was young has left her with a head bursting with stories waiting to be told.

When stories she wrote for fun on Ronan Keating's website became so popular they were sold as a fundraising project for his cancer awareness charity, Ali realised only that not was writing something she enjoyed doing, but something others enjoyed reading too. Ali lives in Cambridgeshire with family her and two Labradors.

The new sensational thriller from bestselling author of Home, Karen Dionne

The Wicked Sister

KAREN DIONNE

She thought she'd buried her past. But what if it's been hunting her this whole time?

You have been cut off from society for fifteen years, shut away in a mental hospital in self-imposed exile as punishment for the terrible thing you did when you were a child. But what if nothing about your past is as it seems? And if you didn't accidentally shoot and kill your mother, then whoever did is still out there. Waiting for you.

For a decade and a half, Rachel Cunningham has chosen to lock herself away in a psychiatric facility, tortured by gaps in her memory and the certainty that she is responsible for her parents' deaths. But when she learns new details about their murders, Rachel returns to the place where she once felt safest: her family's sprawling log cabin in the remote forests of Michigan. As Rachel begins to uncover what really happened on the day her parents were murdered, she learns – as her mother did years earlier – that home can be a place of unspeakable evil, and that the bond she shares with her sister might be the most poisonous of all.

Meet Me in Bombay is a breath-taking story of separation, tragedy and fierce love set against the exotic world of colonial Bombay and the tragedy of the First World War

Meet Me in Bombay

JENNY ASHCROFT

Bombay, 1913.

It's New Year's Eve, and Madeline Bright, fresh to the exotic opulence of colonial India, is yearning for all she's left behind in England. But then, at the stroke of midnight, Maddy meets Luke Devereaux, and as the year changes so do their lives – for ever . . .

Bold and charismatic, Luke opens her eyes to the wonders of Bombay, while Maddy's beauty and vivacity captures his heart. Only her mother disapproves, preferring the devoted Guy Bowen as a match for her daughter.

But while Maddy and Luke are falling in love, the world is falling apart. War is on the horizon, and soon it's a question of when Luke will be called to fight, not if. They'll be continents apart, separated by danger and devastating loss, but bound by Luke's promise that they will meet again in Bombay...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Jenny Ashcroft lives in Brighton with her husband and three children. Before that, she spent many years living and working in Australia and Asia – a time which gave her an enduring passion for stories set in exotic places. She has a degree in History, and has always been fascinated by the past – in particular the way that extraordinary events can transform the lives of normal people.

Jenny's first and second books – Beneath a Burning Sky and Island in the East – were both eBook bestsellers. Meet Me in Bombay is Jenny's third novel.

Born to be Mild

ROB TEMPLE

A handful of years ago I moved to a house on a quiet street in a quiet town and lay quietly in a room for a long time. I used to love an adventure, and I had jobs on magazines (remember magazines?) which provided the opportunity for plenty of them, but when I hit my thirties I'd started to become increasingly afraid of the world, until I was too frightened to even go outside at all.'

Rob Temple runs a social-media empire from the comfort of his sofa. Living the dream! But what happens when a lack of colleagues, bosses and alarm clocks means that your sofa, and the four walls of your very quiet living room, become your whole world?

In this tender and life-affirming memoir, Rob explores what it will take for him to become a little less Bear (Pooh) and a little bit more Bear (Grylls), and how mild-mannered, anxious rule-followers can get their own share of (gentle) adventure from time to time.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Rob Temple is a journalist and founder of the @SoVeryBritish Twitter account, which now has more than one million followers, and a consultant on the official Channel 4 Very British Problems series.

Originally from Peterborough, he moved from South London to the countryside to provide more storage space for his rapidly expanding collection of inedible hot sauces and to be alone with his thought(s). He's not that keen on hot drinks but is fine with just water if that's ok?

A snapshot of Britain's relationship with race and racism in recent history, The Louder I Will Sing is the story of Lee Lawrence's fight for justice for his mother Cherry Groce, who was paralysed as a result of police shooting her in her home – the catalyst to the 1985 Brixton riots

The Louder I Will Sing

LEE LAWRENCE

What would you do if the people you trusted to uphold the law committed a crime against you?

On 28th September 1985, Lee Lawrence's mother Cherry Groce was wrongly shot by police during a raid on her Brixton home. The bullet shattered her spine and she never walked again. In Brixton, it was the spark needed to trigger two days of rioting that saw buildings brought down by petrol bombs cars torched and shops looted.

But for Lee, it was a spark that lit a flame that would burn for the next 30 years as he fought to get the police to recognise their wrongdoing.

The Louder I Will Sing is a powerful, compelling and uplifting memoir about growing up in modern Britain as a young black man. It's a story both of people and politics, of the underlying racism beneath many of our most important institutions, but also the positive power that hope, faith and love can bring in response.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Lawrence is entrepreneur who works to help marginalised people find their voice, manage conflict and achieve justice. In 2014, he founded Mobility Enterprises with the hope of aiding those who would otherwise struggle in their daily life by providing public transport for the disabled. In 2016, he founded the Cherry Groce Foundation which exists the of enhance wellbeing individuals with a physical or mental impairment.

A stunning family memoir by journalist Georgina Lawton, exploring race, identity and the devasting effect of long-held secrets on a happy family

Raceless

GEORGINA LAWTON

'Twenty-six years ago, I was born to white parents with no explanation as to why I looked black. Seeking answers has been an incredible journey, taking place against the backdrop of a country that routinely marginalises and overlooks the stories of black and brown people.'

In Georgina Lawton's childhood home, her blackness was never acknowledged; the obvious fact of her mixed-race heritage was simply ignored. It was only when her beloved father died, when Georgina was just twenty-two years old, that the complex truth began to emerge. In the years since, Georgina has been on a personal journey to discover her own heritage and to connect with the black British culture she had no exposure to growing up. In doing so, she has found her own story mirrored in those of countless people of colour whose identity has been questioned, denied or erased. Raceless, Georgina's first book, is both the compelling personal account of a young woman seeking her own story amid devastating family secrets, and a fascinating, challenging and essential examination of racial identity in modern Britain.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Georgina Lawton is a twenty-sixyear-old journalist, speaker and writer. former Guardian Weekend columnist, she is now a freelance contributor for paper, and also writes for a number other publications such as the Independent, Stylist, Travel + Leisure, VICE, Time Out London and more.

The fourth book in the hit The Mitford Murders series by international bestseller Jessica Fellowes sees trouble follow Unity Mitford into the family's life

The Mitford Trial

JESSICA FELLOWES

A timeless whodunit with the fascinating Mitford sisters at its heart, The Mitford Trial is inspired by a real-life murder in a story full of intrigue, affairs and betrayal.

It's lady's maid Louisa Cannon's wedding day, but the fantasy is shattered shortly after when she is approached by a secretive man asking her to spy on Diana Mitford – who is having an affair with the infamous Oswald Mosley – and her similarly fascist sister Unity.

Thus as summer 1933 dawns, Louisa finds herself accompanying the Mitfords on a glitzy cruise, full of the starriest members of Society. But the waters run red when a man is found attacked, with suspects everywhere.

Back in London, the case is taken by lawyer Tom Mitford, and Louisa finds herself caught between worlds: of a love lost to blood, a family divided, and a country caught in conflict.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Jessica Fellowes is an author, journalist and public speaker, best known for her work as author of five official companion books to Downton Abbey, various of which have hit the New York Times and Times bestseller lists. A study of the forensics of Agatha Christie, from author and pathologist, Carla Valentine

Murder Isn't Easy

CARLA VALENTINE

While other children were devouring the works of Enid Blyton and Beatrix Potter, Carla Valentine was poring through the pages of Agatha Christie novels — and that early fascination led to her job as a pathology technician working in mortuaries and trained in forensics.

Nearly every Agatha Christie story involves one – or more commonly several – dead bodies, and for a young Carla, a curious child already fascinated with biology, these stories and these bodies were perfect puzzles.

Of course Agatha herself didn't talk of 'forensics' in the way we use it now, but each tale she tells twists and turns with her expert weave of human observation, ingenuity and genuine science of the era. Through the medium of the 'whodunit', Agatha Christie was a pioneer of forensic science, and in Murder Isn't Easy Carla illuminates all of the knowledge of one of our most beloved authors.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Carla Valentine works with the dead: she's your average chick who just happens to know as much about corpses as she does cocktails. After studying forensics. Carla assisted pathologists with post-mortems years, before eventually becoming the Technical Curator the world's most famous pathology museum. When it comes to death, she truly is a world-class expert.

Christmas for Beginners is the gloriously festive sequel to readers' favourite and Sunday Times bestselling novel Happiness for Beginners

Christmas for Beginners

CAROLE MATTHEWS

The new feel-good follow up to Happiness for Beginners.

Christmas is approaching at the new Hope Farm, and Bev has convinced a reluctant Molly to organise an open day to raise some much-needed funds. Their nativity tableau has everything they need: anti-social sheep, alpacas munching the Baby Jesus doll and Lucas's poetry – which he still refuses to share with his dad, Shelby.

Molly fears that the close quarters of the new trailer and the mucky life on the farm are beginning to take their toll on Shelby, as he starts eyeing up some more glamorous acting gigs. His constant sneezing and bright red eyes are hardly ideal for his career and they aren't sure how long their living situation can last.

As tensions mount, Molly feels pulled in too many directions. The animals, the open day, Lucas's love life and Shelby's restlessness are all pushing her to her limit. And that's without the distraction of a shockingly handsome new mayor...

Secrets to a happy life, from a Hungarian-born American centenarian (and the last surviving prosecutor of the Nuremberg Trials) who has done the most extraordinary things with his own remarkable life

Parting Words

BENJAMIN FERENCZ

How many people do you know grew up as an immigrant in America during the Great Depression, won a scholarship to Harvard Law School, landed on the beaches of Normandy on D Day, fought at the Battle of the Bulge, was present at the liberation of concentration camps including Buchenwald, Mauthausen and Flossenburg, held leading Nazis to account at the Nuremberg Trials and has fought for an International Criminal Court to hold war criminals to account?

Now you know one. Benjamin Ferencz turns 100 in 2020. In the century since he was born, he has witnessed more change and more history than many of us can hope to see. He has been an immigrant, a poor boy, a rich man, a soldier, a liberator, a prosecutor, a defender, a changemaker, a son, a brother, a husband, a father and many other things. He has had a remarkable life, and with it has come a perspective on the world unlike anyone else's. Here Ben shares ten extraordinary, humbling lessons he's learned along the way — from the subjects of courage and ambition to love, liberty, happiness and fulfilment — that we can all harness for ourselves.

OO platkus

A memoir about parenting, disability, and the strange beauty of being human

Raising A Rare Girl

HEATHER LANIER

Like many women of her generation, writer Heather Lanier did everything by the book when she was expecting her first child. She ate organic foods, recited affirmations and drew up a birth plan for an unmedicated labour in the hopes that she could create a SuperBaby, an ultra-healthy human destined for a high-achieving future.

But her daughter Fiona challenged all of Lanier's preconceptions. Born with an ultra-rare syndrome known as Wolf-Hirschhorn, Fiona received a daunting prognosis: she would experience significant developmental delays and might not reach her second birthday. Lanier realises the biggest question is not, Will my daughter walk or talk? but, How can I best love my girl, just as she is?

Loving Fiona opens Lanier up to new understandings of what it means to be human, and above all, the aching joy and wonder that come from embracing her girl's unique life.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

On paper, middle-aged men appear privileged and successful, but are they happy? No

Man Down

MATT RUDD

From the outside, the men of today should be happy. They have it comparatively easy. They still get paid more for doing the same jobs. They are still forty per cent more likely than women to be promoted to management roles. At home, men do washing-up and petrol, wine and bins. Women still do everything else.

But below the surface, there is a different story unfolding. Men in the UK are three times more likely to take their own life than women. Men aged 45–49 have the highest rate of suicide, nearly four times that of women the same age. Their reported levels of stress are higher and their levels of happiness are lower. The evidence is clear and ironic: the system set up by men, which doesn't work for women, isn't working for men either. It's making none of us happy.

Man Down is by turns compassionate and provocative as Matt Rudd digs with humour and honesty into the reasons behind this unhappiness. Part memoir, part manifesto, Man Down is rich in stories from Matt's own life, and from the varied lives of many other men he has interviewed.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Matt Rudd is senior writer at the Sunday Times which he joined in 2002. Matt's column. Man which Trouble. for awarded columnist of the year at the 2019 BSME awards, appears in the Sunday Times magazine. His debut novel, William Walker's First Year of Marriage: A Horror Story, was published in 2009, followed a year later by William's Progress. His first non-fiction book, The English: A Field Guide, was published in 2014.

The Organised Mum Method showed you how to master the housework to stop it taking over your life. This new book will show you how to take control of the rest of your day – and the rest of your life – and make sure you are spending your time on the things that are most important to you

The Organised Time Technique

GEMMA BRAY

If you're feeling overwhelmed by all the things you need to squeeze into your day, unproductive or stuck in a daily routine that isn't making you happy, The Organised Time Technique is for you. This is Gemma Bray's unique method for organising your day that will stop you from trying to do everything (and feeling like a failure when you can't), keep you focused on how you use the time you have available, help you play to your strengths and, most importantly, stop worrying about what anyone else is doing.

So how does it work? The Organised Time Technique encourages you to look at the 24 hours you have each day as your time budget - at total of 48 30-minute tokens. It helps you work out how to spend those tokens in the best way possible by breaking down your day into Level 1 'non-negotiable' tokens such as sleeping and eating; Level 2 'essential' tokens like going to work and taking your children to school; and Level 3 'focus' tokens - the things you always want to get around to doing, but never quite manage such as taking up a hobby, reading a book, starting a side business or simply having a bath!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gemma founded The Organised Mum Method (TOMM) 11 years ago when her first child was born. Fed up with the housework getting out of control, she created a cleaning routine and stuck it on the fridge. TOMM was born!

In January 2017 Gemma put it all down in a blog and shared TOMM with her readers. The response has been phenomenal! A firm believer that there is more to life housework, she everything from delicious slow cooker recipes to housekeeping hacks. In September 2019 Gemma published her first book Organised Mum Method which was instant Sunday Times bestseller.

Niksen teaches us how to embrace idleness and explains how doing nothing can make us happier, more productive and more creative

Niksen

OLGA MECKING

'Niksen is an increasingly popular Dutch relaxation technique where you relinquish control and just . . . stop. At a time when meditative practices can feel like yet another thing to do, niksen is liberatingly simple' Guardian

The Dutch concept of Niksen comes at no cost and zero effort. It's literally doing nothing, but consciously so.

In this concise and witty book, Olga Mecking provides tips on how to Niksen in the most important areas of your life: work, home and leisure. Talking to experts from around the world, she reveals how doing nothing can make you happier, more productive and creative. In addition, we are given a fun glimpse of Dutch culture to show us why the Dutch are one of the happiest people in the world and why they are so good at doing nothing every once in a while.

Stress and burnout are on the rise. The antidote: Niksen.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Olga Mecking has researched the subject of Niksen and doing nothing extensively, spoken to experts, academics and scientists around the world, and studied the Dutch culture attentively for almost a decade. She believes there's much more to doing nothing than meets the eye and is ready to share her findings on this fascinating subject.

Other than spending many hours on Niksen, Olga is a writer, journalist and translator based in the Netherlands. She contributes to the New York Times, the Guardian, the BBC, The Atlantic and many other media outlets.

Love Letters From Montmartre is an ode to love, Paris and empathy from international bestselling author Nicolas Barreau

Love Letters From Montmartre

NICOLAS BARREAU

Julien Azoulay is famous around the world for his beautiful romance novels. But last year, he stopped believing in love. When his beloved wife Hélène died, leaving him alone to raise his young son, Julien lost his faith in the happier side of life – and with it his ability to write.

But Hélène was clever. Before she died, she made Julien promise to write her one letter for each year of her life . . . and now, in this moment, in the most famous cemetery in Paris, Julien stands with his painful first letter in his hand. Here, even though Julien wouldn't believe it, something wonderful is going to happen . . .

Come with us down the narrow streets, past the cosy red bistro on Rue Gabrielle, all the way to Montmartre cemetery with its beautiful stone angels, and discover the truth we all hope to find: that love is real, that miracles can happen and — most of all — that it's never too late to rediscover your dreams.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nicolas Barreau was born in Paris, the son of a French father and a German mother. He studied romance languages and literature at the Sorbonne and worked in a bookshop on the Rive Gauche in Paris but is far from an inexperienced bookworm. He has sold over four million copies of his books across Europe.

From the beloved author of Memoirs of an Imaginary Friend comes a wonderful new novel, written entirely in lists, about a man whose life is at a crossroads

Twenty-One Truths About Love

MATTHEW GREEN

Daniel Mayrock's life is at a crossroads:

- 1. His bookshop is failing.
- 2. He's sick of feeling useless.
- 3. His wife, Jill, is ready to start a family.
- 4. She has no idea about 1 and 2.

Dan is scared. Then Jill gets pregnant. And now all Dan knows is:

5. Dan loves Jill.

Brimming with Dan's hilarious sense of humour and unique world-view, his obsessive list-making paints a picture of a man who's willing to do just about anything for the love (and soon-to-be new love) of his life . . .

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Matthew Green is an author, storyteller and school teacher. He is the author of four previous novels including the international bestseller, Memoirs of an Imaginary Friend. His work has been translated into more than twenty-five languages. Matthew Green lives in Connecticut with his wife, their two children and two pet cats.

The most romantic novel of 2020, this is a tragic love story spanning three decades where the love affair starts and ends on a bench. From the Richard & Judy bestselling author of The Twins

The Bench

SASKIA SARGINSON

'We should have a plaque too,' he says. 'What would it say?'

I tilt my head. 'For Cat and Sam, who found each other and lost each other and found each other again,' I suggest.

It begins at the end.

It begins on a bench, on a heath, where a woman waits for a man.

Ten years ago, they made a pact: On this bench, on this day, they will end a love affair that's spanned three decades, or start again. They should never have met.

They should never have fallen in love.

But they did, until a lie separated them for a lifetime. Can they fix the mistake, forgive the lie, erase the years inbetween?

Can what was lost ever truly be found?

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Saskia Sarginson was awarded a distinction in her MA in Creative Writing at Royal Holloway after a BA in English Literature from Cambridge University and a BA in Fashion Design Communications. Before becoming full-time author. The brand-new book in the bestselling In Death series

Shadows in Death

J.D. ROBB

As it often did since he'd married a cop, murder interrupted more pleasant activities. Then again, Roarke supposed, the woman lying in a pool of her own blood a few steps inside the arch in Washington Square Park had a heftier complaint.

When a night out at the theatre is interrupted by the murder of a young woman in Washington Square Park, it seems like an ordinary case for Detective Eve Dallas and her team. But when Roarke spots a shadow from his past in the crowd, Eve realises that this case is far from business as usual.

Eve has two complex cases on her hands – the shocking murder of this wealthy young mother and tracking down the shadow before he can strike again, this time much closer to home. Eve is well used to being the hunter, but how will she cope when the tables are turned? As Eve and the team follow leads to Roarke's hometown in Ireland, the race is on to stop the shadow making his next move . . .

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nora Roberts published her first novel using the pseudonym J.D. Robb in 1995, introducing Eve Dallas, a New York City police lieutenant with a dark past, and billionaire Irish rogue, Roarke. Since then, the In Death series has sold over sixty-six million copies, with each new novel reaching number one on bestseller charts the world over.

The chilling twenty-fourth mystery in the bestselling DI Wesley Peterson series by award winning crime writer Kate Ellis

The Burial Circle

KATE ELLIS

On a stormy night in December, a tree is blown down on an isolated Devon farm. And when the fallen tree is dragged away a rucksack is found caught amongst the roots – and next to it is a human skeleton.

The discovery revives memories for DI Wesley Peterson. A young hitchhiker who went missing twelve years ago was last seen carrying a similar backpack. Suddenly a half-forgotten cold case has turned into a murder investigation.

Meanwhile, in the nearby village of Petherham, a famous TV psychic is found dead in suspicious circumstances whilst staying at a guesthouse. Wesley's friend, archaeologist Neil Watson, is studying Petherham's ancient mill and uncovering the village's sinister history. Could the string of mysterious deaths over a hundred years ago be connected to the recent killings?

As Wesley digs deeper into the case, it seems that the dark whisperings of a Burial Circle in the village might not be merely legend after all.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kate Ellis was born and brought up in Liverpool and studied drama in Manchester. She is the award-winning author of the Wesley Peterson murder mysteries, as well as the Albert Lincoln trilogy and the Joe Plantagenet mysteries.

In 2019 Kate won the CWA Dagger in the Library Award. She has also twice been shortlisted for the CWA Short Story Dagger.

Coming November 2020 by Kate Ellis: The House of the Hanged Woman. Hardback, £19.99.

Mackenzi Lee's The Madness Blooms is a novel set during the Dutch Tulip Fever, from the bestselling author of The Gentleman's Guide to Vice and Virtue

The Madness Blooms

MACKFN7I I FF

My brother Bastian was born in a tulip field, or so the story goes. The woman at the church orphanage boasted this proudly to the seed merchant who had chosen Bas as his apprentice. Lucky for me, he took us both.

When a single tulip bulb sold for the price of Amsterdam's finest houses, the flower shop was supposed to be our future. But when our master died, there wasn't even money to pay for his coffin. He, too, had caught the tulip fever.

Bas and I hatched a dangerous, outrageous plan, a plan I hoped would save our shop — and save us. I would dress as a man, take on a new name, and attempt to sell a fake Semper Augustus bulb, the rarest and most valuable tulip of all, to the one merchant in town with the money to pay for it.

But then I met his daughter, Elsje, and fell in love with her at first sight. Immediately, we were bound together. And the longer I lived a man's life, the less it felt like a disguise. Now, I hardly know what to do. Who to save. Who to become. Who I am.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mackenzi Lee holds a BA in History and an MFA in Writing for Children and Young Adults from Simmons College, and her short fiction and non-fiction has appeared in the Boston Globe. Atlas Obscura, Crixeo and the Newport Review, among others. She is the New York Times author bestselling of the historical fantasy novels This Monstrous Thing, The Gentleman's Guide to Vice and Virtue, which won a 2018 Stonewall Honor Award and the New England Book Award its sequel, The Lady's Guide to Petticoats and Piracy and Loki: Where Mischief Lies, the first of a series for Marvel Press.

Ex-England cricket captain Mike Brearley examines the 'Spirit of Cricket' and how the notion of a 'good spirit' can be applied more broadly than simply in cricket or sport.

The Spirit of Cricket

MIKE BREARLEY

The laws of cricket, like the laws of the land, aim at a sort of justice or balancing between different factions. The purpose behind cricket's laws, and behind changes in them, is often to calibrate the balance in the game between batsmen and bowlers, between attack and defence, between safety and risk. Cricketing lawmakers are interested in the overall appeal of the game to players and spectators alike.

Mike Brearley's brilliant TheSpirit Cricket will alternate between issues examples within the game as well as broader issues such as the spirit and letter of the law. It will discuss the issue of how far what purports to be justice (in law or in spirit) may or may not be the expression of the powerful within the activity or within society. It will also contrast cheating and corruption, and will reflect on the nature of penalties in regard to each. It will discuss the significance of the notion of the spirit of the game for umpires, groundsmen, administrators, media and spectators - as well of course as for players.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Mike Brearley OBE was educated at Cambridge and captained the university. He played for Middlesex County Cricket Club intermittently from 1961 to 1983, captaining the side from 1971 to 1982. He first played for England in 1976 and captained the side from 1977 to 1980. He was recalled to the captaincy in 1981 for the Ashes home series, leading England to one of their most famous victories. Since retiring from cricket in 1982, he trained and continues to work as a psychoanalyst, and is a lecturer on leadership and motivation. He author of bestselling The Art of Captaincy, and has written on cricket and the psychology sport the Observer and most recently The Times. He lives in London.

100 Places That Make Britain Great

The Crown Jewels of England

CLIVE ASLET

What would you save if your house was on fire? It's a question we have all been asked time and again – a parlour game that we are all familiar with. But what if it wasn't your home but Britain that was on fire, and the treasures to choose from the miraculous buildings, places and landscapes our unique nation has to offer?

In this delightful celebration of the wonders of our fair and fertile land, Clive Aslet takes us on a journey across the nation to marvel at 100 sites of great importance and beauty. From unique foliage in Wales and the stunning Dorset landscape, to the famous White Cliffs of Dover and the abundance of cathedrals in London, Aslet lovingly captures the magic of the places and buildings that underpin our national identity.

Uplifting, joyous and charming, The Crown Jewels of England is both a tribute to our beloved landscape and an open invitation to discover the world of astonishing beauty that lies just beyond your doorstep.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Clive Aslet is a writer and commentator on architecture and British life. He began work at Country Life in 1977, and was editor of the magazine from 1993 to 2006. He is also the author of several books, including The Edwardian Country House and The American Country House.

The music autobiography of autumn 2020 - godfather of electropop Gary Numan's remarkable story

Untitled Gary Numan

GARY NUMAN

In this electrifying new memoir, the godfather of electropop, Gary Numan, reveals the extraordinary story of his life as one of Britain's most important and respected musical artists.

Gary grew up in west London, where he was expelled from two schools and beaten up daily for looking different. He always preferred a beating to looking 'normal'. It wasn't until he stumbled upon his first synthesiser that he felt he had found his place in the world. From forming the iconic Tubeway Army in the 1970s, recording number one albums and conquering the music world, to the slow decline that almost finished him, a date with a super fan that undoubtedly saved him, and the twenty-plus year renaissance that has seen him rediscover his creativity and produce incredible music – Gary's life has been an exhilarating rollercoaster ride.

This book will tell the story of one man, several dozen synthesisers, the issues that he has been forced to confront and his two desperately different lives.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gary Numan is an award-winning musician and was the frontman of ground-breaking new wave band Tubeway Army from 1975 to 1979. As a solo artist he has released over twenty albums, with Replicas, The Pleasure Principle and Telekon all charting at number one in the UK.

The definitive, authorised biography of Lee Child

The Reacher Guy

HEATHER MARTIN

Lee Child is the thriller writer responsible for countless international bestsellers — as well as the iconic character of Jack Reacher. Yet despite being revered by millions of readers around the globe, little is actually known about the enigmatic man behind the novels.

The Lee Child origin myth is a much-loved one: it sees the author springing, fully formed, from the brow of Granada Television. But this is the first time that anyone has revealed the Lee Child arc: from peaceful obscurity in the Yorkshire Dales to cult status as a literary rockstar, through to backlash, the changing zeitgeist and intimations of retirement.

The Reacher Guy is an explosive and riveting biography of a much-loved and mythologised author. In it, Heather Martin looks closely at where Child really sprang from. Based on disarmingly frank personal conversations and years of correspondence with the author, as well as privileged access to archival materials, it is the nearest thing the world is ever likely to get to the autobiography Lee Child does not intend to write.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Heather Martin was born in West Australia. She read Languages at Cambridge, where she also did a PhD in Comparative Literature, and has held teaching and research positions at Cambridge, Hull, King's College London, and most recently, the Graduate Center, City University New York.

Heather is a long-time Jack Reacher fan. While waiting to get her hands on the next in the series, she once read a Lee Child book in Spanish and wound up writing to the author about the fate of his character in translation. The Reacher Guy is her first biography. She is based in London.

The first book from much-loved television and radio presenter, Fun House's Pat Sharp

Re-Run the Fun: My Life as Pat Sharp

PAT SHARP

Pat Sharp is a man out of time. For those of a certain generation, he is an iconic figure synonymous with good fun, great hair and gunge. For others he's just that bloke with a mullet. Fame is a fickle beast and, since the final Fun House aired in 2000 Pat has become a reclusive figure, only emerging from his ivory tower to pop up on things like I'm a Celebrity, Never Mind the Buzzcocks, Celebrity Coach Trip, Pointless Celebrities, Through the Keyhole, and Celebrity Come Dine with Me. Until now.

The book takes us from a dingy Radio 1 studio to David Hasselhoff atop the Berlin Wall; from Fun House to breaking up a fight between Damon and Liam at a (fun) house party; from presenting Top of the Pops to the time he suggested Geri's dress be a Union Jack; to masterminding (and acting as support) at the now-legendary Bros revival gigs . . . Pat has the scars, and the photos, to prove it all. Re-run the Fun harks back to a time when life was simpler. Finally, the Great British Public can learn what life is like as Pat Sharp; the highs, the lows, the hair tips, the endless selfies.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Pat Sharp is a radio and television presenter and DJ. He is best known for his work on the children's television programme Fun House (1989–99). Pat is now a regular host on the 80s and 90s nostalgia radio and festival scene, both in the UK and abroad, playing to 200,000 people on 2019's Let's Rock tour alone.

The story of legendary Hall of Fame boxing promoter and manager Frank Warren . . . and of all the greats he has worked with, from Bruno, to Benn, to Tyson

Frank and Fearless

FRANK WARREN

In a remarkable career that has spanned over thirty-five years, London-born boxing promoter and manager Frank Warren's name has become synonymous with this most noble art, and his understanding of the sport and its athletes is perhaps unparalleled.

From modest beginnings as an unlicensed promoter for his second cousin, Lenny 'The Guv'nor' Maclean, Frank has become one of the most influential figures in global boxing. An International Hall of Fame boxing promoter and manager, he has had a ringside seat to the action and has managed and worked with many of the most iconic names in British boxing history: Hamed, Bruno, Tyson, Calzaghe, Benn, Collins, Eubank, Khan and Hatton to name but a few. And this is Frank's story...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

In a career spanning over thirtyfive years, Hall of Fame boxing promoter and manager Frank Warren has worked with some of the most iconic names in boxing history.

Volume 2 of the remarkable memoir from New Order's Stephen Morris

Fast Forward: Volume 2

STEPHEN MORRIS

Praise for Record Play Pause

'A unique and thoughtful musical memoir' - Observer

'Gritty coming-of-age story . . . plenty of anecdotes to keep us hooked, and his memories of Joy Division's Ian Curtis are poignant' – Daily Mirror

Record Play Stop is the stunning second volume of Joy Division and New Order drummer Stephen Morris's Sunday Times bestselling autobiography.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Stephen Morris has been a consistent fixture in New Order since 1980. The band's long career has included multiple world tours and headlining appearances at festivals, as well as a performance at the closing concert for the 2012 Olympics.

Outside of New Order, Morris has released albums and television soundtracks with his wife Gillian Gilbert under the name The Other Two, and has contributed in the studio and on tour to Bernard Sumner's project Bad Lieutenant. He is also well known for owning a collection of tanks, which he drives recklessly near his home.

In this thought-provoking investigation, journalist James Innes-Smith travels to the frontline of the worrying new gender war, exploring why maleness is having such a polarising effect both culturally and politically

The Seven Ages of Man

JAMES INNES-SMITH

What does masculinity mean in the twenty-first century? Is it an innate biological truth, a nonbinary social construct or an outdated vehicle of oppression?

In this thought-provoking investigation into one of the most pressing issues of our time, James Innes-Smith examines a range of vital topics, from toxic masculinity and the blurring of gender roles to patriarchy, male suicide and the importance of positive role models. He talks to third-wave radical feminists, $\mathbf{men's}$ activists and to ordinary men and women struggling to make sense of a rapidly changing landscape. The Seven Ages of Man explores why maleness is having such a polarising effect both culturally and politically. It is about why men and women are losing faith in each other and what we need to do to regain trust.

Masculinity is under attack. This is the story of why it matters.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

James Innes-Smith writes about gender issues for various publications including the Daily Mail, The Times, Daily Telegraph and Evening Standard.

Quiet Acts of Violence is a novel about family and betrayal, injustice and poverty, the ties that bind and those that break us

Quiet Acts of Violence

CATH STAINCLIFFE

Manchester today. A dead baby. A missing mother. A cradle of secrets.

Has the woman killed her child? Is she at risk to herself? Someone in the neighbourhood of old terraced streets has the answers. But detectives Donna Bell and Jade Bradshaw find lies and obstruction at every turn, in a community living on the edge, ground down by austerity and no hope. A place of broken dreams. Of desperation. And murder.

When a stranger crashes into Jade's life, her past comes hurtling back, threatening to destroy her and the world she has carved out for herself.

Donna struggles to juggle everything: work, marriage, kids. It's a precarious balancing act, and the rug is about to be pulled from under her.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

The Unstable Boys is the first novel from legendary rock critic Nick Kent

The Unstable Boys

NICK KENT

1968 – The Unstable Boys was the band everyone was talking about. But the group was also mired in its fair share of tragedy and controversy. Their lead guitarist was killed in a road accident whilst several drummers passed through their ranks. When their next album flopped, the group broke up and the band members faded into obscurity.

Over forty years later a leading computer firm runs a series of high-profile ads for their latest software featuring one of the Unstable Boys' songs, and the band are catapulted back to the top of the charts. Millionaire crime novelist Michael Martindale, an Unstable Boys fanatic as a teenager, is determined to reunite the band. Unknown to Martindale, though, a Russian mob have managed to coerce the band into signing away all future publishing and performance royalties from all his previous recordings, including the Unstable Boys. The gloves are now off..

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Nick Kent is a legendary rock critic and author of the memoir Apathy for the Devil (Faber) and The Dark Stuff (Faber) which the Spectator called 'a mighty tome, containing some of the best music journalism ever written'. He was also an apprentice to Lester boyfriend \mathbf{of} Chrissie Bangs, Hynde, confidant of Iggy Pop, trusted scribe for Led Zeppelin and the Rolling Stones, and early member of the Sex Pistols. The Unstable Boys is his first novel.

The Thing Is . . . A novel, a confession, a poem, an autofiction, a commonplace book, a prose poem

The Thing Is . . .

CHRISTOPHER POTTER

By turns serious and playful, profound and trivial, sad and joyful, The Thing Is . . . is a shape-shifting narrative. The narrative moves deftly from an ingenious theory about the origins of the universe and the emergence of life, to a riff on the poetic power of doorways (and other thresholds); or from stories about things hidden from view or buried by time, to what it feels like to be alive at this particular moment in history.

Beautifully wrought, often funny and poignant, The Thing Is . . . is designed to be read in a variety of ways: in gobbets, all in one go, slowly, quickly, repeatedly. This slow/fast read is the perfect novel for our fast/slow times. Whatever The Thing Is . . . to you, it will provide a new twist on the continuing adaptability of the form that we call the novel.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Christopher Potter is the author of three books: The Earth Gazers: On seeing ourselves, How to Make a Human Being: A body of evidence and You Are Here: A portable history of the universe.

He is the former publisher and managing director Fourth \mathbf{of} Estate, now an imprint of Harper Collins. As an editor he worked with many writers, including Gilbert Adair. Paul Bailey, Deborah Cadbury, Michael Chabon, Cunningham, Michael Maureen Duffy, Marcus Du Sautoy, James Gleick, Kathryn Harrison, Paul Hoffman, Kate Jennings, Mary McGarry Morris, Hilary Mantel, Mark Merlis, Richard Panek, Annie Proulx, Matt Ridley, Carol Shields, Peter Singer, Simon Singh, Dava Summerscale Sobel. Kate and Salley Vickers.

The second crime novel featuring DI Jabulani Sibanda: a highly knowledgeable, bush-savvy policeman, stationed at a village on the borders of Zimbabwe National Park

Sibanda and the Death's Head Moth

C. M. ELLIOTT

Detective Sibanda and Sergeant Ncube are back! Two bodies are discovered near Gubu, one burning at the base of a tree struck by lightning and, on the banks of the Zambezi, a second killing which threatens to tear Detective Sibanda's life apart. The victims are not connected as one is a foreign wildlife researcher and the other a local driver, but Sibanda's intuition tells him the murders are linked. The only clues are a fragment of material found in the brain of one victim, a puncture wound in the thigh of the other, and a diary full of coded names.

As the men investigate further, they find links to an ivory smuggling gang and in their pursuit of the killer, Sibanda and Ncube not only have to cope with their temperamental LandRover, and their chief inspector's lack of cooperation, but a rough and remote landscape full of wild and dangerous adventure.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

C.M. Elliott was born in England. At twenty-seven, she moved to Zimbabwe in the middle of the civil war and, with her game ranger husband, pioneered tourism business in the newly independent country, based in and around Hwange National Park. Elliott began writing seriously about three years ago - short stories to begin with and then moving on to what eventually become Sibanda and the Rainbird. She now writes full time.

The fifth murder mystery from Dublin-based author Andrea Carter featuring solicitor Ben O'Keeffe, set on the wild and isolated Inishowen peninsula

The Body Falls

ANDREA CARTER

April in Florida and Ben O'Keeffe is enjoying balmy temperatures, working the last few days of a six-month stint with her old law firm. A week later she returns to Glendara, Inishowen where a charity cycle race is taking place. It starts to rain, causing the cyclists to postpone the start of their event and stay overnight in the town.

In the middle of the night Sergeant Tom Molloy is called out to Mamore Gap, where a body has fallen onto the vet's jeep. It is identified as Bob Jameson, a well-known local charities boss, and the organiser of the cycling event. The GP confirms that the man has suffered a snakebite.

Terrible weather persists and soon bridges are down and roads are impassable. Glendara is completely cut off, with a killer at the heart of the community. Who is responsible for Bob Jameson's death? One of the strangers in town or someone closer to home? It's left to Molloy, with Ben's assistance, to find out what is going on.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

The seventh charming murder mystery in the Honeychurch Hall series featuring Kat Stanford

Death of a Diva at Honeychurch Hall

HANNAH DENNISON

Spring is in the air . . . and so, too, is the sound of music as the residents of Honeychurch Hall are stunned to learn that the Dowager Countess Lady Edith Honeychurch has agreed to the staging of a production of The Merry Widow in the dilapidated grand ballroom.

Fears that the fiercely private octogenarian must be going senile are soon dismissed when our heroine, Kat Stanford, learns that the favour is a result of a desperate request from Countess Olga Golodkin. As one of Edith's oldest friends Olga is the director of the amateur Devon Operatic Dramatic Organisation.

Just a week before, D.O.D.O's original venue was destroyed in a mysterious fire but since tickets have been sold, costumes made and lucrative local sponsorships secured, Olga is determined that the show must go on. After decades at the helm of D.O.D.O., The Merry Widow will be Olga's swansong and she wants to go out with a bang...

An essential popular A–Z reference guide for fans of crime fiction and true crime, in books, TV and film, helping to make sense of everything from asphyxiation to VX nerve agent

From Aconite to the Zodiac Killer

AMANDA LEES

This is an indispensable guide for fans of true crime and crime fiction, whether in books, film or on TV, who want to look behind the crime, to understand the mechanics of an investigation, to walk in their favourite detectives' shoes and, most importantly, to solve the clues.

To do that, one needs to be fluent in the language of the world of crime. We need to know what that world-weary DI is talking about when she refers to another MISPER. We have to immediately grasp the significance of the presence of paraquat, and precisely why it is still a poison of choice.

From Aconite to the Zodiac Killer is an essential, go-to resource for readers and even for writers of crime fiction. More than simply a glossary, this is a guide that provides a doorway into a supergenre, and one that is not just for readers, but also for the many fans of film and TV dramas, of podcasts and crime blogs.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Amanda Lees was born in Hong Kong. She is the author of the bestselling satirical novels Selling Out and Secret Admirer (Pan) which have both received critical acclaim and have been translated into several languages. Her major YA thriller trilogy, Kumari, Goddess of Gotham. nominated for the Guardian Children's Book Prize and the Doncaster Book Award. Amanda appears regularly on BBC radio and LBC and was a contracted the hit writer to series Weekending on Radio 4.

Does the Big Bang prove the existence of God? What's the Universe expanding into? Is Earth the only planet which supports life? Why did the greatest astronomer in history murder his pet moose?

Astronomical

TIM JAMES

In Astronomical, Tim James takes us on a tour of the known (and unknown) Universe, focusing on the most mind-boggling stuff we've come across, as well as unpacking the latest theories about what's really going on out there.

Guiding through Einstein's us relativity, quantum mechanics and string theory, Astronomical delves into the baffling corners of the cosmos and tackles the biggest mysteries we face: from alien life to the zodiac; from white holes to wormholes; from quasars to quark stars. This is the science of space at its absolute strangest!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Tim James is a secondary-school science teacher, YouTuber, blogger and Instagrammer. Raised by missionaries in Nigeria, he fell in love with science at the age of fifteen and refuses to get over his infatuation.

After graduating with a Master's degree in Chemistry, specialising computational quantum mechanics, he decided to get straight into the classroom. His first book, Elemental: How the Periodic TableNowExplains (Nearly) Everything published in July 2018 and was a Daily Mail Book of the Year. His Fundamental: How second, physics quantum and particle explain absolutely everything (except gravity), was published in August 2019.

As a police officer, Alistair Livingstone was dubbed Supercop by the media for making more arrests than any other officer in the UK. But then Ali broke down. Broken Blue Line is the vividly told story of what brought him to that point, and the beginning of his slow, painful recovery

Broken Blue Line

ALISTAIR LIVINGSTONE

Alistair Livingstone was dubbed Supercop. In an eighteen-month period he made more than a thousand arrests when the yearly average for officers is just nine. He dealt with life-and-death situations on an almost daily basis: saving lives as a hostage negotiator; rescuing the occupant of a house fire; providing tactical advice during some of the most violent incidents; clinging onto a suicidal man hanging from the roof of a multistorey car park. Ali was also engulfed in the aftermath of losing a colleague, and witnessed the unprecedented response to the serial killings in Ipswich and the profound effect it had on the community and the police.

But then an agonising and debilitating mental breakdown left the seemingly indestructible sergeant desperately seeking help. After almost two decades Ali left the force. Broken Blue Line offers an insight into the real world of modern policing: the demands and challenges faced by frontline officers throughout the UK. Ali's hope is that he will help to remove some of the lingering stigma that attaches to mental illness

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Alistair Livingstone joined the police force, in Ipswich, in 2001. He went on to make more arrests than any other police officer and dubbed Supercop in media. He has recently retired from the job he loved as a result of mental health issues, but is on the road to recovery.

A long-overdue book honouring the remarkable achievements of key black British individuals over many centuries, in collaboration with the 100 Great Black Britons campaign founded and run by Patrick Vernon OBE

100 Great Black Britons

PATRICK VERNON & ANGELINA OSBORNE

Patrick Vernon's landmark 100 Great Black Britons campaign of 2003 was one of the most successful movements to focus on the role of people of African and Caribbean descent in British history. Frustrated by the widespread and continuing exclusion of the black British community from the mainstream popular conception of 'Britishness', Vernon set up a public poll in which anyone could vote for the black Briton they most admired.

The response to this campaign was incredible. As a result, a number of black historical figures were included on the national school curriculum and had statues and memorials erected and blue plaques put up in their honour. Mary Seacole was adopted by the Royal College of Nursing and was given the same status as Florence Nightingale.

With this book, Vernon and Osborne have relaunched the campaign. 100 Great Black Britons includes an updated list of names and accompanying portraits. Each entry explores the individual's contribution to British history – a contribution that too often has been either overlooked or dismissed.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Patrick Vernon is a Clore and Winston Churchill Fellow, a fellow at the Imperial War Museum, Royal Historical Society and a former associate fellow for the Department of the History of Medicine at Warwick University. He was awarded an OBE in 2012 his work tackling health inequalities for ethnic minority communities in Britain. Since 2010 he has been leading the campaign for Windrush Day and in 2018 kick-started the campaign for an for the Windrush amnesty Generation.

Angelina Osborne is an independent researcher and heritage consultant. She received her PhD in History from the Wilberforce Institute for the Study of Slavery and Emancipation, University of Hull in 2014.

A ground-breaking new book from the Dean of Digital Learning at MIT on the science of how we learn

Grasp

SANJAY SARMA & LUKE YOQUINTO

In Grasp Sanjay Sarma argues that the emerging focus on actual 'learning' over ineffectually just 'educating' is timely and essential to our future. In a networked and digitised world, our ability to learn over the course of a lifetime has never been greater. But as a result, the demands for a dynamic, adaptive and enduring approach to knowledge acquisition and application have increased — we can't just 'do our learning in school' and then settle in for the long haul of a narrowly defined, static work life.

Grasp shows why the pace of learning is far more important than the kind of learning; why cramming is a really poor way to actually learn information; how we can prime curiosity to maximise information absorption and storage; and how our knowledge develops through stages of recognition, fluency and creative application.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Sarma, Professor Mechanical Engineering at MIT, is the university's Dean of Digital Learning, overseeing the school's open courseware initiatives. The author of more than seventy-five professional papers, he has been awarded the MIT MacVicar Fellowship and other prestigious awards such as the Den Hartog Teaching Excellence Award and the Joseph Η. Kennan Award for Innovation Undergraduate inEducation.

Luke Yoquinto is a freelance science writer and research associate at the MIT AgeLab. He primarily studies the history of the current sociological narrative of old age.

How do we know who to trust and what to do to genuinely reach a ripe old age? Public health consultant David Conrad presents the evidence, interpreted through the amusing questions of Ariane Sherine and celebrity contributions

How to Live to 100

ARIANE SHERINE & DAVID CONRAD

Comedian Ariane Sherine has always been determined to live into her hundreds, but never knew how. With so much conflicting and confusing health information out there, she didn't have a clue where to start until she met David Conrad, a public health expert, who helped her to weigh up all the research and evidence and explained exactly what to do to live a long and healthy life.

And together, they've decided to tell you how to live to a hundred too. And why wouldn't you want to live a super-long life, if you could remain in good health?

This book has all the facts, stats, inappropriate jokes and shameless puns you could ever need to make it to your eleventh decade. The evidence is there – everything from green tea to gardening, sex to sweeteners. And celebrities weigh in with their own thoughts too, with contributions from Derren Brown, Richard Osman, Lou Sanders, Charlie Brooker, Konnie Huq, Robin Ince, Jeremy Vine, Clive Anderson and many more.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ariane Sherine is a comedy writer and journalist. Her work has appeared in, among others, the Guardian, the Sunday Times, the Observer and the Independent, and she has worked as a scriptwriter for the BBC, Channel 4 and ITV. She loves writing fiction. photography, illustration, video editing and jewellery designing, and is happiest when sitting in her garden on a sunlit day with her daughter, Lily.

A compelling, perspective-shifting work by a top behavioural neuroscientist on the science of how we sense our bodies – how we feel the world beneath the skin – and how our bodies create the very experience of being alive

How You Feel

JAMES TRESILIAN

Close your eyes and ask yourself, 'What do I feel?'

What was your experience? Did you feel the physical presence of your body – its size, its shape? Did you feel any of your body's needs, like hunger or thirst? You probably also had a sense of whether you were feeling healthy or unwell.

All of these sensations are kinds of body feelings, and although many of them are always present, in modern life we don't pay much attention to them. But our experiences, our thoughts and our entire minds are dependent upon and shaped by our bodies and what they do.

How are all the bodily feelings produced? What are they telling us and can they be trusted? This book answers these questions and takes you on a tour through your innards and into the deep recesses of the mind, and from there to your conscious thoughts, perceptions and emotions.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

James Tresilian is a behavioural neuroscientist and one of the world's leading experts in the study of human sensory perception and the control movement. He Professor and former Chair of the Department of Psychology at the University of Warwick, UK and Professor Honorary at the University of Queensland, Australia.

The Whale in Your Living Room follows the adventures of BBC Blue Planet producer, John Ruthven

The Whale in Your Living Room

JOHN RUTHVEN

For many, the oceans are missing pieces in the story of life on Earth. Quite literally immersed in his subject, John can finish this story, and who better? He is the only producer to have worked full time on Blue Planet series I and II, and has produced nearly fifty other films about the sea.

With first-hand experience he feels the loneliness of whale calves in the blue, the fear as seals dodge great white sharks near the coast, or the curiosity of octopus staring back at the camera. His journey takes us through the blue rings of South Pacific coral atolls, gives us submarine rides into the abyss with ancient life forms, and encounters so close with singing humpback whales that the water will bounce at the bottom of your virtual dive mask. Through each stunning adventure John draws out important insights into what is presently known about how the sea, and our whole blue planet works.

On our journey, memorable, touching and often funny moments with film crews at sea will help to explain our current understanding of the ocean and how little we still know about our home planet.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

John Ruthven's passion is to engage people through film to tell great stories. Having completed a PhD in Zoology, he began his career as a professionally trained BBC sound engineer. Over the years he has written, produced and directed audience-engaging and awardwinning shows for BBC, Discovery, National Geographic, PBS and many other well-known broadcasters. In 2015 he received an Emmy for best environmental film in the USA for Mysteries of the Coral Canyon.

His work on Blue Planet II was ground-breaking. Not only did he write David Attenborough's script but by producing the episode 'Big Blue' on open oceans, they captured the first ever images of mother and calf sperm whales diving into the abyss, using custom-made camera systems attached to the whales. It is one of the most widely seen wildlife films of all time.

Dazzling space battles, intergalactic politics and rogue AI collide in the second book in this epic space opera series by award-winning author Megan E. O'Keefe

Chaos Vector

MEGAN E. O'KEEFE

Return to the Protectorate universe with the stunning sequel to Megan E. O'Keefe's acclaimed SF debut Velocity Weapon.

Sanda and Tomas are fleeing for their lives after letting the most dangerous smartship in the universe run free. Now, unsure of who to trust, Sanda knows only one thing for certain — to be able to save herself from becoming a pawn of greater powers, she needs to discover the secret of the coordinates hidden in her skull.

But getting to those coordinates is a problem she can't solve alone. They exist beyond a dead gate – a Casimir gate that opened up into a dead-end system without resources worth colonising, and was sealed off. To get through the dead gate, she needs the help of the enemy Nazca. But some Nazca are only interested in the chip in her head – and they'll crack her open to get to it.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

The razor-sharp follow - up to the critically acclaimed Sixteen Ways to Defend a Walled City from World Fantasy Award-winner K. J. Parker

How To Rule An Empire and Get Away With It

K. J. PARKER

This is the story of how the City was saved, by Notker the professional liar, written down because eventually the truth always seeps through.

The City may be under siege, but everyone still has to make a living. Take Notker, the acclaimed playwright, actor and impresario. Nobody works harder, even when he's not working. Thankfully, the good citizens of Classis appreciate an evening at the theatre even when there are large rocks falling out of the sky.

But Notker is a man of many talents, and all the world is, apparently, a stage. It seems that the Empire needs him – or someone who looks a lot like him – for a role that will call for the performance of a lifetime. At least it will guarantee fame, fortune and immortality. If it doesn't kill him first.

This is the story of Notker, an occasionally good man and a terrible liar. With razor-sharp prose and ferocious wit, K.J. Parker has created one of fantasy's greatest heroes, and he might even get away with it.

Bone Shard Daughter is an unmissable fantasy debut for 2020 – a captivating tale of magic, revolution and identity, from a major new talent

The Bone Shard Daughter

ANDREA STEWART

The Sukai dynasty has ruled the Empire for over a century, their mastery of bone shard magic powering the animal-like constructs that maintain law and order. But now the emperor's rule is failing, and revolution is sweeping across the Empire's many islands.

Lin is the emperor's daughter, but her father won't recognise her as heir unless she can recover the childhood memories she lost after a mysterious illness. Trapped in a palace of locked doors and dark secrets, Lin vows to prove her worth by mastering the art of bone shard magic.

Yet such magic carries a great cost, and when the revolution reaches the gates of the palace itself, Lin must decide how far she is willing to go to claim her birthright – and save her people.

With its diverse cast of loveable characters, a unique magic system and a beautifully realised world, Bone Shard Daughter marks the debut of a major new voice in epic fantasy.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Andrea Stewart is the Chinese American daughter immigrants, and was raised in a number of places across the United States. Her parents always emphasised science and education, she spent her childhood immersed in Star Trek and oddsmelling library books. When her (admittedly ambitious) dreams of becoming a dragon slayer didn't pan out, she instead turned to writing books. She now lives in sunny California, and in addition to writing, can be found herding cats, looking at birds and falling down research rabbit holes.

KIM STANLEY ROBINSON

Kim Stanley Robinson returns with his most ambitious novel to date. Charting our future over the coming century, and set against a background of political, economic and environmental upheaval, it is a work of brilliant imagination and powerful ideas from one of the most important science fiction writers of our time.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kim Stanley Robinson is a New York Times bestseller and winner of the Hugo, Nebula and Locus Awards. He is the author of more than twenty books, including the bestselling Mars trilogy, 2312, Aurora and New York 2140. In 2008 he was named a 'Hero of the Environment' by Time magazine, and he works with the Sierra Nevada research institute. He lives in Davis, California.

From the author of The Ten Thousand Doors of January comes this lush, magical work of speculative fiction that will appeal to fans of The Night Circus and A Secret History of Witches

The Once and Future Witches

ALIX E. HARROW

In 1893, there's no such thing as witches. There used to be, in the wild, dark days before the burnings began, but now witching is nothing but tidy charms and nursery rhymes. If the modern woman wants any measure of power, she must find it at the ballot box.

But when the Eastwood sisters – James Juniper, Agnes Amaranth and Beatrice Belladonna – join the suffragists of New Salem, they begin to pursue the forgotten words and ways that might turn the women's movement into the witch's movement. Stalked by shadows and sickness, hunted by forces who will not suffer a witch to vote – and perhaps not even to live – the sisters will need to delve into the oldest magics, draw new alliances, and heal the bond between them if they want to survive.

There's no such thing as witches. But there will be.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

There Before the Chaos begins a fresh, pulsepounding space opera series from an exciting new voice in science fiction

There Before the Chaos

K. B. WAGERS

The battle for the throne is over. The war for the galaxy is just beginning.

Hail Bristol, infamous galactic gunrunner and former runaway princess, never expected to inherit the throne of Indrana. But after avenging the murder of her family and cleansing the Empire of usurpers in a bloody civil war, the former outlaw must fulfil her duties to her people. Hail retires her gun and throws herself into the rebuilding of her Empire.

Her hard-won peace is short-lived. When Indrana's closest ally asks Hail to intervene in an interstellar military crisis, she embarks on the highest stakes diplomatic mission the Empire has ever faced. Caught between two alien civilisations at each other's throats, she must uncover each side's true intentions before all of humanity becomes collateral damage in a full-blown galactic war.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

K. B. Wagers is the author of the Indranan War trilogy and the forthcoming Farian War trilogy, about the gunrunner empress Hail Bristol. They live in the shadow of Colorado's Pikes Peak with their partner and a crew of poorly behaved cats. They're especially proud of their second-degree black belt in Shaolin Kung Fu and their three Tough Mudder completions. There's never really a moment when they're not writing, but they do enjoy fountain pens and good whiskey.

The gripping second book of this must-read series by breakout author Evan Winter continues to raise the bar for epic fantasy fans, doing for the genre what Black Panther did for superhero films

The Fires of Vengeance

EVAN WINTER

Desperate to delay an impending attack by the indigenous people of Xidda, Tau and his queen craft a dangerous plan. If Tau succeeds, the queen will have the time she needs to assemble her forces and launch an all-out assault on her own capital city, where her sister is being propped up as the 'true' Queen of the Omehi.

If the city can be taken, if Tsiora can reclaim her throne and reunite her people, then the Omehi might have a chance to survive the coming onslaught.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Born in England to South American parents, Evan Winter was raised in Africa near the historical territory of his Xhosa ancestors. Evan has always loved fantasy novels, but when his son was born, he realised that there weren't many epic fantasy novels featuring characters who looked like him. So, before he ran out of time, he started writing them.

The first in a commercial, character-driven fantasy trilogy, in which a con artist, a vigilante, and a crime lord must unite to save their city, which is slowly being corrupted by dark magic

The Mask of Mirrors

M. A. CARRICK

Darkly magical and beautifully imagined, The Mask of Mirrors is the unmissable start to the Rook & Rose trilogy, a rich and dazzling fantasy adventure in which a con artist, a vigilante, and a crime lord must unite to save their city.

Nightmares are creeping through the city of dreams . . . Renata Virdaux is a con artist who has come to the sparkling city of Nadezra -- the city of dreams – with one goal: to trick her way into a noble house and secure her fortune and her sister's future.

But as she's drawn into the aristocratic world of House Traementis, she realizes her masquerade is just one of many surrounding her. And as corrupted magic begins to weave its way through Nadezra, the poisonous feuds of its aristocrats and the shadowy dangers of its impoverished underbelly become tangled -- with Ren at their heart.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

M. A. Carrick is the joint pen name of Marie Brennan (author of The Memoirs of Lady Trent) and Alyc Helms (author of The Adventures of Mr. Mystic). The two met in2000 archaeological dig in Wales and Ireland – including a stint in the town of Carrickmacross - and have built their friendship through decades of two anthropology, writing, and gaming. They live in the San Francisco Bay Area.

A gritty and epic standalone fantasy adventure, to appeal to fans of Mark Lawrence, Andrzej Sapkowski and Joe Abercrombie. From Adrian Selby, author of Snakewood and The Winter Road

Brother Red

ADRIAN SELBY

When the trade caravan Driwna Marghoster was hired to protect is attacked, she discovers a dead body hidden inside a barrel. Born of the powerful but elusive Oskoro people, the body is a rare and priceless find, the centre of a tragic tale and the key to a larger mystery . . .

For when Driwna investigates who the body was meant for, she will find a trail of deceit and corruption which could bring down a kingdom, and an evil more powerful than she can imagine.

A gripping psychological YA thriller from a debut author, The Girl Who . . . tells the story of Leah, who has been hiding her rage over the tragic deaths of her mum and sister for years, and now, with the killer due for release from prison, it is finally time to see how far Leah will go to silence her anger

The Girl Who . . .

ANDREINA CORDANI

The girl who . . . survived

The girl who . . . inspires

The girl who \dots has something to hide

People can't bring themselves to say what happened to her. They just describe her as 'the girl who . . . you know . . .' But nobody really knows, no-one sees the real Leah.

Leah was seven years old when she saw her mother and sister killed by a troubled gang member. Her case hit the headlines and her bravery made her a national sweetheart. She is the perfect survivor: strong, brave and forgiving.

But Leah is hiding a secret about their deaths. And now, at seventeen, all she can think of is revenge.

For years Leah has been preparing, making plans to end her rage and pain for ever, and it will take more than her flamboyant (and nosy, and irritating) stepsister Ellie to stop her.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

When she was at school, Andreina Cordani used to get out of PE by saying she would use the time to write a book and dedicate it to her gym teacher. Sadly it took years of exercise-dodging before she was able to complete The Girl Who... and she hasn't been able to touch her toes since 2002.

following years, In the pursued a career in journalism, working for women's magazines including That's Life, Cosmopolitan and Good Housekeeping. Specialising in 'real life' stories, she interviews seemingly ordinary people about their extraordinary lives - most of which you wouldn't believe if you read it in a novel.

She lives on the Dorset coast with her family.

Please note: appearances at literary festivals are often a significant part of an author's book promotional tour. We ask that festival organisers discuss with our publicity department before an invitation is offered, so that we can help make the necessary arrangements. If a festival extends a direct invitation to an author, it is on the understanding that all the arrangements including any fee or expenses will be covered.
