

What's your story?

Now is your chance to turn detective and discover more stories. These could be about the British Empire or other local or national histories that have impacted you. Use the tips below to start your investigation, then share your story in the space below - good luck!

- Talk to other people about what they remember and their experience
- Ask the oldest person you know for the name and birth date of the oldest family member they remember, then get researching them. You can use the Census or visit your library for help
- Have you been intrigued by a local statue or building? If so, why not research the history of it
- Pick a topic that interested you in Story of Now and research that further

Activity inspired by Story of Now by Shelina Janmohamed
For more details get the book wherever books are sold